PEACE PARLEY ENTERS FINAL TREATY PHASE

Preamble of Italian Pact Is Adopted as Russ Assail Trieste Settlement.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 9—The peace conference entered its final phase of treaty-writing late today with the adoption of the preamble to the Italian settlement.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov who assailed the Italian treaty draft plan for the projected Free State of Trieste as an "undemocratic" means of keeping the strategic Adriatic area under British-American control in an address to the delegates this morning presided as chairman.

The conference witnessed its first real division on Article three dealing with the Italo-Yugoslav frontiers. White Russia demanded a roll call on its amendment, which had failed in commission, to move the line westward in Yugoslavia's favor.

It was rejected, 14 to 5, with two absentions. Ethiopia joined White Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Ukraine in backing the amendment Belgium and Yugoslavia abstained.

The same vote defeated a similar Yugoslav amendment. On the second roll call, Belgium and Ethiopia abstained, and Yugoslavia joined the other Slav states in supporting it. In both cases, Russia faithful to her Big Four commitments, voted against the amendments, thus supporting the four-power agreements

Speaking for the Soviet Union in a peace conference plenary session, Molotov declared that the statute adopted by the parley's Italian political and territorial commission for governing the free state lodged "absolute power" in a foreign governor and left the city's population "disenfranchised" under foreign troops

This means Trieste is not an international territory, but a semi-enemy supervised territory under control of the Anglo-American forces," Molotov declared

Voting by the 21-nation conference on the Italian treaty draft was scheduled to begin at 4 p. m. (10 a. m EST), with a night session also scheduled.

Making his first pronouncement since his return from Moscow, Molotov demanded that the conference transfer power in Trieste to a government elected by the popular assembly similar to the pre-war government in Danzig

It is not true to say there is no similarity between Trieste and Danzig' he said "The experience of Danzig should be utilized in Trieste'

Addressing himself to "Western Bloc' nations, Molotov criticized what he termed "attempts by the old democracies to isolate the young Slav democracies. Especially as these are trying to maintain their new national institutions and are not willing to do the bidding of some other powers"

Molotov told the conference delegates that the question before them was whether to establish the free state on "democratic principles' or abandon these principles

The plan embodies such restrictions on the legislature and executive, and grants such wide powers to the governor, that hardly anything remains of democracy, the minister said.

Mean Absolute Power

These "wide" powers, he said, in actual fact mean "absolute power for a governor imposed from above and the disenfranchisement of the population"

Molotov also called for adoption by the conference of a Polish-Ukrainian amendment rejected in commission to suppress neo-Fascist and frontier revisionist movements within Italy.

Molotov appealed for conciliation between the Slav and non-Slav nations, but warned western nations they must respect the rights and position of the Slav states

The dairy officials' statement read as follows

"Owing to higher priced markets bidding for milk in this area, it is necessary for Marion dairies to meet this competition to insure a supply of milk for Marion, making it necessary to increase the selling price of milk one cent a quart and the price of coffee cream two cents for each one-half pint, with corresponding increases for all other dairy products The new prices will be effective Thursday, Oct 10"

Lutherans Recommend Church Join With International Group

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9—A recommendation that the Lutheran World Federation be asked to "sustain appropriate relationship" with the Commission of the Churches on International Affairs was made today before the 15th biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America

The recommendation was presented in a report prepared by Dr. O Frederick Nolde, dean of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Philadelphia, who urged that the church recognize in the commission "an important agency through which Christian testimony can be offered to the world of nations'

Dr Nolde spoke as vice director of the commission, which was established last August by the World Council of Churches and the International Missionary Council at a meeting in Cambridge, England, of church leaders from 15 countries.

Work for Peace

Through the commission, Protestant churches intend to work for the preservation of world peace and order.

The commission's vice director stressed the need for Christian leadership in shaping international policies and practices and declared such leadership was responsible, in a large measure, for bringing into the United Nations charter provisions for fundamental rights and human freedoms.

He said churches also had been active in connection with the Paris peace conference, urging that treaties enumerate human rights and fundamental freedoms to be recognized.

The report of Dr. Nolde, who served as associate consultant to the United States delegation at the United Nations conference in San Francisco, followed a report of the board of social missions, presented by Carl M. Distler, Baltimore lawyer and president of the board.

Recommendation Made

Distler's report recommended that the church encourage positive and creative activities of the United Nations, including: development of international law to subordinate international force, reduction and regulation of armaments by international action; promotion of respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms; improvement of colonial administrations looking toward eventual self-government, and development of economic cooperation among nations.

WARREN TRANSPORT BACK TO NORMAL

By The Associated Press

WARREN, O., Oct. 9 — This city's public transportation knot was untied today as independent bus drivers ended a paralyzing nine-day walkout and returned to their jobs, but a power strike curtailing service to 75,000 area consumers continued amid hopes for an early settlement.

Warren Transportation Co buses began rolling at 5 30 a. m. today as independent drivers, involved in a jurisdictional dispute with the AFL Motor Coach Employes union, resumed work following a common pleas court ruling limiting AFL pickets to six at company garage entrances and four at bus stops.

AFL drivers walked out Sept. 30, seeking company recognition. The independent drivers refused to cross massed picket lines. Both unions claim to represent a majority of workers and the national labor relations board soon will conduct an election to determine the proper bargaining agent.

SOME CHANGE NOTED IN U. S. LABOR STRIFE

Minor Strikes Settled by Maritime and Pittsburgh Power Stalemated.

By The Associated Press

There were some improvements in the nation's industrial strife today but settlement did not appear imminent in the country's two major labor disputes—the maritime strike and the Pittsburgh power shutdown.

Disputes involving municipal workers in Pontiac, Mich, and bus drivers in Warren, Ohio, were settled, while in the Ohio city early settlement of a power strike that curtailed service to 75,000 consumers was hinted. There also was a possibility a strike of 6,700 Mack Truck Co. workers in three cities might be settled soon

In Pontiac, officials of the CIO United Public Workers said 400 of the 800 municipal employes who had been on strike for 42 days would go back to work after reaching a settlement providing a flat $12 50 monthly wage increase The strikers, not including firemen, policemen, essential hospital workers and employes of the water and health departments had struck for pay hikes of 10 cents an hour. The increase granted, union leaders said, averaged six cents hourly.

Meet At Pittsburgh

In Pittsburgh, federal conciliators planned separate meetings with officials of the struck Duquesne Light Co. and the independent union in an attempt to settle union demands for a 20 per cent wage hike and end the 16-day old walkout. Pittsburgh's 2,700 AFL streetcar operators remained idle as they refused to pass power union picket lines.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach intervened in the nationwide maritime strike in an effort to bring at least a partial settlement of the dispute which has tied up shipping on all coasts for more than a week.

There were outbursts of violence in two labor disputes yesterday — both in jurisdictional controversies—at the Hollywood movie picketing and at the six-weeks-old dispute between rival unions at the Norwalk, Conn., Tire and Rubber Company In Hollywood, one man was injured and three were arrested as picketing extended to Columbia studios

Police Ordered Into Area

In Norwalk, state police were ordered into the area near the rubber plant after yesterday's fighting between AFL and CIO workers Three persons were injured and six others were arrested The melee, observers said, resluted from an AFL picket line thrown about the plant in an effort to bar CIO-organized workers from entering The AFL United Mine Workers recently was displaced by the CIO-United Rubber Workers as sole bargaining agent for the plant's 600 production employes.

There were several continuing strikes. These included the work stoppage by 1,000 AFL bakers in Washington asking 20 per cent wage hikes and the bus and electric railroad strikes in Chicago which have interrupted the normal transportation facilities for some 400,000 persons daily The 1,000 AFL bus drivers for the Chicago Motor Coach Co, and 160 rail brotherhood members employed by the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad have been on strike for more than a week Higher wages are the main issues in both disputes.

Pittsburgh Light Company Charges Sabotage Action

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9—The Duquesne Light Company reported today that an unattended automatic sub-station service a populous residential area had been sabotaged, plunging the district into a temporary blackout on the 16th day of a power strike.

A company spokesman said the Brentwood sub-station, where 66,000-volt current is reduced to 4,000 volts for residential use, was shut down by a break which he called without qualification an "act of sabotage."

He said that the break occurred about 3 a. m. and that investigation showed a door to the station had been forced and valves opened, permitting oil lubricating the machinery to drain off.

Survey of 45 Cities Etches Dim Picture

Scarcities Equaling War Days Are Reported by Most Communities.

By The Associated Press

A sharply etched picture of shortages of meat, soap, sugar, toilet tissue and other key living items—worse in many instances than during the bleakest war days—was disclosed today by a survey of 45 cities

Up and down and cross the country, major communities reported that many normal essentials had either gone from the shelves entirely, disappeared under the counter to become so-called 'stoop items' for favored customers, or were available only to the lucky or constant shopper.

The cross-nation check by The Associated Press brought in these among other returns

In 40 of the 45 cities meat was either not available at all or often was in supply ranging from a small fraction of normal to an "occasional" appearance

In all 45 cities soap in one or all of its forms was becoming almost a collectors item.

Sugar Scarce

In 25 cities sugar was scarce or even in acute shortage, while in 18 others it was either plentiful or in fair to middling supply.

Sixteen communities listed toilet tissue among the top scarcities

Cooking oils and fats, shortening mayonnaise, salad oils, oleomargarine, lard, syrup and other items containing sugar were short in varying degrees in most cities—a list to which the Jacksonville, Fla, reporter tacked on "bourbon whisky," and Milwaukee added a diaper shortage

Boise, Idaho, stood out as a bright spot in the nation. It reported tersely, "no shortage of beef, lamb, sugar or butter," but complained mildly that there was a scarcity of "certain cuts of pork."

Even in Boise, however, when a food mart actually advertised its supply of soap and shortening a show case was broken and only 25 per cent of the jammed customers could be accommodated Boise also had its scarcities of paint, oil mayonnaise, cheese and some canned goods

Minor Disturbances Reported

Reports of minor disturbances in the dash to capture scarce items were scattered across the country.

In Columbus, O, where some

Police and Troops Break Up Demonstration of Jobless and Homeless.

By The Associated Press

ROME, Oct. 9—Police and troops using tanks and armored cars fought for three hours before the Viminale Palace, seat of government, today with demonstrators led by workmen protesting their dismissal from a public project. A government communique said one person died of injuries and 79 others were wounded.

Police announced earlier that three had been killed and leaders of the 20,000 to 30,000 demonstrators asserted that at least eight were slain

Scores of bullet marks pocked the palace

Government officials and the head of the Italian Communist party, Palmiro Togliatti, retreated from a palace balcony, where they were attempting to quiet the angry mob, when pistol shots were fired in the air.

Pietro Nenni, Socialist leader and minister, suffered minor bruises when the crowd shoved him around as he walked among the demonstrators trying to pacify them.

Veterans Swell Ranks

The Workers' ranks were swelled by homeless war veterans and refugees from a camp on the edge of the city.

At one time, some members of the throng penetrated the palace as far as the office of Premier Alcide de Gasperi, but were pushed back after they had smashed furniture and windows elsewhere in the building.

A government communique early this afternoon said 50 of the demonstrators and 29 policemen were injured. It did not specify

LABOR UNION BACKS CITY SCHOOL LEVY

CLU Supports Issue To Raise Teachers' Pay.

At a regular meeting of the Marion Central Labor Union last night the Central body, made up of elected representatives of AFL organizations in the Marion district, voted unanimously to back the proposed 2-mill school levy The group also voted an appropriation to help finance the campaign for the levy, which will appear on the ballots in the November election

It was pointed out last night that teachers' salaries in Marion are among the lowest in the state and also that teachers are among the lowest paid workers in Marion

A letter from President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, was read Mr Green, in his letter to all state Federation of Labor and City Central bodies pointed out the seriousness of the crisis now confronting public education in this country

Citing statistics to show how thousands of teachers throughout the country are leaving the schools for more remunerative work in other lines, thus leaving the schools to be run by undertrained and inexperienced personnel, Mr Green called upon all AFL unions to inaugurate or get back of determined campaigns to

MAY COME OUT FOR JUNKING ALL CONTROLS

Compares Lack of Public Support with Latter Days of Prohibition.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — One of OPA's stauncest champions in last summer's senate battle said he is giving "serious consideration" to junking all price controls today as President Truman pressed ahead with his personal survey of the meat shortage.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla), who lost a fight last June for renewal of the price control act without amendments, declared in a statement

"If price control is getting back like prohibition in its last days so that public opinion is not going to support effective price control and the congress is not going to support it, we might just as well not try to have it."

As White House Press Secretary Charles G Ross told reporters that President Truman is "getting reports every day" on the situation, these others joined in the sizzling debate over steaks and chops:

Senator Mead (D-NY), in a statement after conferring with White House, OPA and agriculture department officials: "I am extremely hopeful that an emergency decision will be forthcoming very shortly which will help to relieve the meat shortage."

Marion E. Martin, assistant Republican national chairman, in a statement issued through GOP headquarters: "The Democrats' contention that they are not responsible is an insult to the intelligence of • • • American women who are now standing in lines all over the country trying to buy meats, sugar, soap and other household necessities"

The justice department reported it is continuing its investigation of the meat industry. A department official so advised a reporter when asked for coinment on a published report that the months-long inquiry had yielded no evidence of conspiracy or collusion in the meat shortage.

Ross told reporters Mr. Truman will hold his weekly news conference at 4 p. m. tomorrow, but that he does not expect any announcement on meat at this time.

Asked if F. H. LaGuardia, director general of UNRRA, had urged the possible importation of Argentine beef for that agency in a White House call yesterday, Ross said he had no information on that.

As to whether anyone had suggested Argentine importations, Ross replied:

"Every possible suggestion has been made to him by someone."

On another question as to whether a possible special session of congress to deal with the meat situation had been the subject of discussion at a cabinet meeting, Ross said he did not know, but that he doubted it.

The seething controversy over decontrol of meat erupted across the nation today, keyed to bitter political charges and counter charges.

Only one thing is certain. There is little meat in pan, kettle or oven. And, in some sectors at least, it is getting scarcer.

UNRRA Director General Fiorello H. LaGuardia said it is not going overseas in UNRRA cartons. Asked by newsmen in Washington whether his organization is shipping meat abroad, LaGuardia replied, "only some canned horsemeat."

Most authorities agree there is plenty of meat, grazing on the ranges, thus Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio charged that "the available supply of meat has been artificially kept from the people."

"Meat shelves of Ohio are bare," Lausche telegraphed Washington, urging a federal investigation of the meat situation in Ohio.

As political overtones of the scarcity swelled hourly, these were the major developments:

1. "The Democrat," official party publication, spoke of a possible full-dress investigation to determine whether "any political or criminal collusion has taken place." The newspaper's headline proclaimed: "Meat Scandal on Republican Doorstep."

To this, Rep. Hallock (R-Ind), chairman of the G.O.P. congres-

Lausche Seeks Power To Oust Sheriffs In Answer To Herbert

(Account of Herbert Charges Appears on Page 9)

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Gov. Lausche announced today he would ask the next legislature to enact a law giving the governor power to remove sheriffs for failure to enforce anti-gambling and liquor laws.

The governor's statement was made in answer to charges by Thomas J. Herbert, Republican gubernatorial nominee, last night that he had been dilatory in enforcing the liquor and anti-gambling laws. Lausche, a Democrat, is seeking reelection.

"If Ohio had such a law now, there are three sheriffs of different political affiliation whom I would remove," the executive said. He declined to name the sheriffs he had in mind.

The governor also said he would not ask the attorney general to conduct special grand jury investigations in Mahoning or any other county at this time, indicating that he considered they would be of little service in clearing up any bad situations.

Want Home Cleaned

He said that if such investigations were contemplated, they should be called in at least a half dozen counties to assist the sheriffs

The governor said he had talked today with information services in Mahoning county concerning Herbert's charge that Mahoning county had the widest open gambling of any in the state. He said the Youngstown Vindicator today would have something to say concerning Herbert's charges.

The governor said "there are a number of counties in the state where I have been prodding public officials to clean up conditions."

"In the fanatical desire to be elected, my opponent is making reckless statements about my attitude on law enforcement," Lausche said.

He asserted that his own activity against slot machine operations and liquor law violations "has quickened the people of

WESTINGHOUSE HEAD ASKS BONUS SYSTEM

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 9—A bonus system based on profits and production designed to "avoid lower living standards for America" was proposed to the American Management association yesterday.

F. D. Newbury, vice president of Westinghouse Electric Corporation, suggested holding of basic wage and salary rates at present values and inauguration of an "extra income" plan instead.

"Some plan is needed that will restore a degree of flexibility to the total wage and salary payroll the volume goes up and down if the American system of private enterprise is to function successfully," Newbury said in a prepared speech.

"One way of securing this is to add to regular weekly or monthly wage and salary payments and additional and separate annual income or wage based on profits, or more directly on the ratio of total payroll to total production or some other factor depending on volume.

"This proposal is not a profit-sharing plan. The additional payment to employes should be treated as a part of operating costs.... An enterprise can pay additional income to employes under these proposals because the payments are made only when they are earned by the business, and the obligation to pay disappears when the ability to pay disappears."

Domestic Chinaware Seen Increasing Sales

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—Prewar consumer preference for foreign-made chinaware "will be altered considerably," the department of commerce predicted today, with American manufacturers obtaining a bigger share of the domestic market.

Before the war the U. S. market was largely supplied by imports from England, France, Japan, Czechoslovakia and Germany. Domestic producers supplied an average of only about three per cent by quantity and 10 per cent by value.

However, when exports were shut of, domestic manufacture increased from the 100,000 to 200,000 dozen pieces of pre-war years to approximately 700,000 dozen pieces annually by 1943. The industry estimates that it will have a capacity for 2,000,000 dozen pieces by the end of this year.

FIRES IN HOMES KILL 6,200 IN ONE YEAR

By The Associated Press

One year of fires in American homes killed 6,200 people and did damage equivalent to wiping out all homes in a town of 15,000. Here are some of the major ways in which those fires started, says a fire insurance company report. Smoking in bed, using matches to find things in dark corners of closets, leaving electric appliances on unattended, using flammable cleaners and makeshift fuses.

Sheep Dog Breeders To Hold Ohio Trials in Marion County

Sport-minded people in Marion county will have a chance to see a type of sport new to this section Saturday when the Sheep Dog Breeders of Ohio hold trials on the farm of Ray Gatewood on Route 95 nine miles east of Marion.

More than 50 owners of dogs in all parts of the state have been mailed invitations to the competition and some of the leading sheep dogs in Ohio are expected to compete.

Two events have been scheduled, one for experienced dogs and one for dogs who have never competed in trials. The trials will be run over an official course and will start at 2 p. m. The public is invited. There will be no admission charge.

Land Suited To Tests

The trials were planned recently during a visit to the Gatewood farm by D. S. Bell, a member of the Sheep Dog Breeders of Ohio and head of the sheep department of the experimental station at Wooster. When Mr. Bell remarked that the sloping land of the farm was well suited for a sheep dog trial course, Mr. Gatewood invited the organization to hold events there. The trials will be the first in Marion county.

The trials are conducted as follows:

The dog is held on a leash by his master. The sheep, usually five in number, are taken away for several hundred yards and hidden from the dog's sight behind a hill or grove. When the dog is released he must find the sheep, and herd them through two sets of obstacles and into a pen. The only aid the dog's master may give is though hand signs and whistles. He may also close the door of the pen after the dog has herded the sheep in. A maximum time of 15 minutes is usually set.

Interest in sheep dogs is highest in the west, Mr. Gatewood said, but has been increasing in Ohio. Frank Swensen of Harpster will enter a dog in the trials.

One of the oldest breeds of dogs, the sheep dog is a type of collie.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Your Pet and Yourself

Rabies is a terrible disease, starting suddenly with great irritation of the nervous system, and ultimately bringing about paralysis and death. Since we have no cure for it, we are fortunate indeed that it is primarily a disease of dogs and is acquired by human beings only as a result of being bitten by a rabid animal.

We are very lucky in another respect, too, in possessing a preventive vaccine. This was worked out by the great French scientist Pasteur and where given early enough to one who has been infected, the development of the disease can be stopped almost without exception.

With this in mind, the average man wants to know what to do and when to do it should he or a member of his family be bitten by a dog which might be infected with rabies.

Circumstances will determine the answer. If the animal can be found, it should be kept under observation. If it does not develop symptoms of rabies within two weeks, no further concern need be felt. If it does, there will still be time for antirabic serum to take effect because, though the time between infection and the onset of rabies varies, in the great majority of cases, it is 20 to 60 days.

There is one exception to this. Bites on the face or neck are particularly dangerous. Therefore many doctors feel that in these cases there should be no waiting at all. In other words, one should not take a chance that the animal will prove to be healthy. The danger is too great should things turn out the other way and hence, they advocate starting antirabic serum at once.

The experience of the Chicago Health Department strongly supports this view. Hence, the only failures in the prevention of rabies have occurred when the vaccine was not given early enough to those bitten on the face or neck.

If the animal cannot be found and observed, then the only safe thing is to assume that it was rabid, start immediate injections of the vaccine, and give a full course.

Rabies seems to be another in the long list of serious diseases which are caused by those extremely tiny trouble-makers, the viruses. Once the rabies organism enters the blood streams, it can be dealt with only by use of antirabic serum. For this and for other reasons Dr. Thomas L. Chiffelle of Nashville advocates washing of the wound with nothing stronger than a 20 per cent soap solution.

The use of such substances as silver nitrate or strong acids is hardly of any value, and certainly no treatment of the wound will eliminate the virus from the wound after six hours.

Persons who have animal bites should not delay in consulting a physician for treatment. Once it develops, rabies is 100 per cent fatal and hence nothing to fool around with or to treat with home remedies. There is just one right treatment and that is prevention by the use of the vaccine early.

Name Class Officers in Harding Elections

Election of class officers to lead the senior, junior, and sophomore class of Harding High school for the school year 1946-47 was conducted recently by the student body.

The election was carried on under the new plan of nominating candidates which was suggested by A. C. May, principal, and approved by the Student Council. The method was that of electing a representative from each home room to be on a nominating committee. These nominating committees then met and prepared the slates of candidates for election.

Officers of the senior class were elected as follows: Gene Frederick, president; Jim Ainey, vice president; Alan Cleveland, secretary, and Doug Duer, treasurer. NAVY RECRUITING TO CENTER AT COLUMBUS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Navy recruiting in most of Ohio will be directed from Columbus beginning Oct. 15, Capt. Royal L. Rutter, area inspector of recruiting, reported yesterday.

Major recruiting stations in Cincinnati and Cleveland will be reduced to sub-stations and a number of other changes will be made.

The changes at Cleveland and Cincinnati will reduce personnel there from the present 10 to 15 men to a staff of more than two.

Excess personnel of the Cincinnati office will be transferred to Indianapolis, which will have charge of the Cincinnati sub-station, and personnel at Cleveland will go to Detroit under a similar arrangement.

The shift will place northern Ohio in the Sixth district with headquarters at Chicago. The rest of Ohio will remain in the Fifth district with headquarters in Columbus.

Other changes include:

Toledo from Cleveland to Detroit jurisdiction; Mansfield from Cleveland to Columbus; Akron, Youngstown and Canton from Cleveland to Pittsburgh; Lima, Dayton and Springfield from Cincinnati to Columbus; Portsmouth from Cincinnati to Huntington, W. Va.

Sub-stations at Steubenville and Marietta will be closed.

Rutter said the changes were in line with curtailments ordered as a result of reduced funds.

New York Gets $30,000 from Roosevelt Estate

By The Associated Press

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 9—The state tax commission reported receipt of $30,000 from the estate of Franklin D. Roosevelt in payment of New York state taxes.

A commission spokesman said the payment would stand as the final tax pending an audit of the tax order filed by the Dutchess county surrogate with the commission.

He estimated that, on the basis of the $30,000 payment, the late President's net estate was somewhere between $100,000 and $900,000.

In a tax return filed Sept. 26 in Poughkeepsie, Roosevelt's net estate was shown to be $1,085,486.50.

DR. HERSHEY USES OWN SONG ON AIR

Marks Opening of 2nd Anniversary Broadcast.

A chorus, words and music to which were composed by Dr. C. E. Hershey, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church, opened the broadcast marking the second anniversary of his "Herald of Truth" program over radio station WMRN Sunday afternoon. The song, "I'm In Love With Jesus," is used as the theme chorus of the program.

Originated in October 1944 the program is heard Sunday afternoons at 2, and transcriptions are sent over radio station KTKN at Ketchikan, Alaska, and KINY, Juneau, Alaska, on Saturdays. It was on a trip to Alaska last year in the interest of the Youth for Christ movement, that Dr. Hershey first introduced his theme music. It has gone with him since into many states in the Youth for Christ work as well as serving as theme song for his weekly broadcast.

At the anniversary celebration Sunday, which was open to the public, Dr. Hershey's message was on "A Sower Went Forth" and was based on verse three of the fourth chapter of the book of Mark. Group singing was by the audience which had gathered at the studio and the hymns were accompanied with a background of accordion music by Dr. Hershey who plays also various other instruments including Belgian piccolo bells, and the musical saw on his different programs. Special music was by Nancy Jane Hershey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hershey, who is regular soloist on the Sunday afternoon program. Songs were presented also by Mary Lou and Joan Miller. Messages of greeting, congratulation and encouragement were read from Rev. Marvin Lewis of the Gospel Fellowship hour, from Howard Jones in behalf of Emmanuel church, and from the radio station.

Copies were distributed of the theme song in a folder on which was printed the origin of the chorus. Crossing Canada by rail to the west coast to embark for Alaska, the words came to him as "a testimony for my Lord of his saving grace and his infinite love." Dr. Hershey declared. "Soon a tune was formed. I jotted them down on an envelope for future use. At Prince Rupert we boarded a ship going north, and while on board ship, I made a rough copy of the chorus. I then introduced it at the first Youth for Christ in Alaska, at Juneau." Dr. Hershey before entering the ministry studied music, won a doctor of music degree and directed his own orchestra.

Besides his pastoral work, speaking at Youth for Christ rallies throughout the country and conducting his broadcast of the "Herald of Truth" program, he accepts engagements as speaker for Bible conferences and conducts evangelistic campaigns.

Goering Weeps as He Packs Up Photos of Wife and Daughter

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Oct. 9—Hermann Goering wept quietly—the only break in his otherwise regidly correct deportment—as he packed away his pictures of his wife and daughter to be sent to them after his execution, a Nuernberg jail official said yesterday.

With a week of life remaining to them, all of the Nazi leaders condemned by the international military tribunal to be hanged, generally are maintaining their dignity and discipline, Maj. Frederick Teich, a security officer, told a news conference.

With the exception of the single breakdown when he regarded the photographs of his wife and daughter, Goering's deportment has been impeccable, Teich said. But both he and former Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop need sedatives nightly to get to sleep.

Sauckel Cries Frequently

Former Nazi labor boss Fritz Sauckel has broken into tears several times. He was calm throughout the hour's visit alloted his wife, the mother of his 10 children, yesterday but when he returned to his cell he paced up and down swiftly. Sauckel has displayed the lowest spirits of all those facing the hangman. A man who scarcely touched a pen throughout his trial he now is writing a letter a day.

Julius Streicher, surly Jew baiter continues to grumble constantly. Like several of the others he is engaged in writing voluminous memoirs.

Field Marshall Wilhelm Keitel former Gauleiter Hans Frank and Ribbentrop also are writing memoirs—verbose affairs running into hundreds of thousands of words. The rest of the condemned men spend most of their time reading.

Goering saw his wife, Emmy, for an hour Monday, and hulking Ernest Kaltenbrunner saw his mistress, the mother of his twins for the first time since he was jailed.

Visit in Special Room

The visits were arranged in a special room with screen and glass separating visitor and prisoner. Kaltenbrunner attempted to kiss his mistress through the screen as their hour expired.

The other condemned men have been asked whether they wanted to see their families before the day of execution, but only six have applied. Ribbentrop, Frank and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl have indicated, however, that they would apply some time this week.

Since the sentencing, an average of 50 letters daily, addressed to the condemned men, arrive at the jail. Most, Teich said, were "from people who do not like the defendants," and most are withheld from the doomed men. Goering gets more mail than any of the others, Teich added.

Nazi Philosopher Alfred Rosenberg appears indifferent to his approaching doom, the security officer said.

"Of Course It's Better...."

"Borden's Golden Crest HomoDee is better in 3 ways," confides Elsie. "It actually has more rich, country-fresh cream, for one thing . . . and you know how important cream is to both taste and nutrition! Then, this cream is evenly distributed throughout the milk, from the top of the bottle to the very bottom. This means you don't have to shake it, as you do ordinary milk . . . and of course, plenty of rich cream throughout the milk is bound to make it taste better!

"The second big feature of HomoDee is just as important! One of the mysterious substances needed by the body is vitamin D. This vitamin is necessary for the development of straight strong bones and sound teeth. That's why we've added 400 units of it to every quart of Golden Crest HomoDee . . . and that, in turn, is why this improved milk is better for all growing children!

"And don't forget HomoDee's third big extra—the protective hood on every bottle! This tough cover repels dirt and germs and insures your milk reaching you just as clean and sanitary as it was when it left the dairy!

"Enjoy the pleasures and benefits of this better milk in your home! Call 5296 for home delivery, or ask for it by name at your neighborhood store."

No Fundamental Difference

THE Paris peace conference was stirred in its plenary session Monday by a strongly-worded appeal for a spirit of peace by Jan Christiaan Smuts, premier of South Africa, statesman of the British empire and one of the greatest living politician-philosophers.

His theme, simple as are all great thoughts, was simply that there is no fundamental dividing line between the East and West. He was speaking, of course, about the schism opening between Russia and the English-speaking peoples. While together they are only a fraction of the East and West, what happens to them affects all other populations in their orbits of influence.

Premier Smuts is both right and wrong. There is no fundamental dividing line between the East and West. The imaginary line, moreover, is being wiped out by proof of compatibility furnished by cooperative action during the war. But then there was a sudden halt to compatibility. The English-speaking peoples were shocked to discover that their Russian ally had as insatiable an appetite for appeasement as Italy under Mussolini or Germany under Hitler. A new kind of dividing line was drawn.

As Premier Smuts knows, absolutism is not geographic. He has encountered it in his own career and fought against it in South Africa. He has seen it crop out in every part of the world at times. He has watched it in the West and in the East. There is no quarrel between Russians and any other population which cannot be settled by good will. But to the extent that any government anywhere persists in the attitude that it must destroy all other governments lest it be destroyed by them, there can be no peace because there can be no reciprocal good will—and without reciprocity good will is impossible. The English-speaking peoples do not want to destroy Russia. They do not want to destroy its government. But if its government seeks to destroy them and their governments, as it openly proclaims, good will is out of the question. The alternative will be an uneasy peace, which is what we have been having since the end of World War II.

Who's a What?

MOVIE ACTRESS MYRNA LOY, whose name sometimes has been included in speculative lists of Hollywood's shocking-pink fringe, seems about to force an overdue showdown on the definition of an overworked term.

Complaining that a film trade publication called her a Communist of the capital C variety, Miss Loy has opened a million-dollar libel suit on the ground that the publication's statement was made with intent to injure her.

Collection of damages on this ground would be a legal precedent with repercussions reaching all the way from Hollywood to the Kremlin. It would establish a point that has been kicked about so recklessly and so continuously that almost no one can say with any assurance what it means to be called a capital-C Communist in the United States. It might even shed light on what it means to be called a lower-case communist.

The only distinction between the two at present is that a Communist is a member of a political party of that name, whereas a communist is a person suspected of having communistic leanings. But a person with communistic leanings cannot very well sympathize with the Communist party, which takes its line from the Communist dictatorship of Russia where lower-case communism is virtually unknown, according to the Russian Communists themselves. This puts both Communists and communists in the United States in the curious position of pointing to Russia as the advertisement of a set of beliefs which are not practiced in Russia. It is confusing. If Miss Loy and her lawyers can help straighten it out, and particularly if they can shed some light on who's a what when the name-calling starts, it would be worth a million dollars.

There Have Been Changes

THE English people will receive the Duke and Duchess of Windsor with no less cordiality in 1946 than in 1937, when the Duke abdicated as King Edward VIII to marry "the woman I love," Mrs. Wallis Warfield.

The only question in the famous couple's experimental return is what the English politicians will say and do—and the question does not loom large. There have been changes since 1937.

World War II has been fought. Great Britain, battered, is still intact. A Labor government has been given responsibility for cleaning up the wreckage of the nearest approach to disaster since 1066.

A British king and his queen have dodged demolition bombs, buzz bombs and rockets. British aristocracy has pitched in to help British masses prepare to fight "on the beaches, in the towns and in the hills." The common denominator of common danger has reduced a lot of diverse elements in British politics. An American bride for a British king did not disturb the little people of Britain seriously in 1937. In 1946 she may not disturb the big people at all.

Russians Tone Down Domineering Attitude.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — The domineering attitude of the Russians at Paris started easing down immediately after Molotov's first trip to Moscow. Earlier the Soviet foreign minister had treated State Secretary Byrnes, in their private conferences, as if the American position was practically inconsequential. Molotov never seriously considered the Byrnes viewpoint and acted as if perhaps the American state secretary did not even represent American opinion. Seeing this, Mr. Byrnes first sent for Senators Vandenberg and Connally to back him and present a stronger appearance of American political unity on policy to the twenty-one nations. Thus an extremely sensitive personal situation arose between Messrs. Molotov and Byrnes, with Molotov trying to bulldoze the smaller nations into acceptance of the largely Russian-made peace treaties by leaving them considerably in doubt as to Byrnes' power and status. It was in the midst of this sensitized condition that Henry Wallace, former commerce secretary, injected himself into foreign policy, and not on the side of Byrnes.

Byrnes Reaction

Now it may be told Byrnes was so angry at this attempt to undermine him at home, when the matter of his prestige had become the subject of the whole Russian underground campaign at the conference, he did not even telephone President Truman to voice his protest. He confined himself even more fastidiously to American circles and let a few newsmittee meetings, although the Russians have not. The Reds, however, have seemed to change around to the position of trying to convince the twenty-one smaller nations that they should adhere and give approval to the Russian position. No longer is roughshod talk used to steamroller the small nations, but as Vice Foreign Commissar Vishinsky told the Italian commission the other day, Russia was ready to admit she did not interpret world events as other nations did, indicating a hope for temperance in international discussions against war, maintaining a new Stalin position against expectations of war and predicting—of all things—"a period of comprehension." In all this Byrnes has kept pretty much to his rooms.

In view of this personal, inner, strained condition of affairs, an objective analyst must conclude Russia has definitely changed her line, but not yet conclusively. In place of rough talk, threats and challenges, she seems to be substituting her old policy of boring from within. Her language has changed, but not her objectives.

Common Practice

This is a common Communist technique, the Marxian principle always allowing its leadership to deviate in tactics from the extremes of aggression to soft appeasement without alteration of ultimate revolutionary intent. Thus Generalissimo (Byrnes always calls him that) Stalin, may tell a secondary London newspaper one day he expects no war and then the next day threaten Turkey belligerently for the Dardanelles as if war were imminent.

On our side, the implications of the flight of the Dreamboat across the top of the world to England, France and Cairo, could not have been missed in Moscow. A slightly northerly arch would have taken the ship to the Soviet capital which, of course, is closed to peaceful airplane flight because of Russia's isolationism.

So matters stand, and will stand, indefinitely, there is no end to this thing. The last political attack is always the least consequential one. The next attack is the only important one. In this case, it may assume more importance than we know in view of the indications that an inward boring technique may be followed, as this is seldom reportable in the public prints and often not known to the people at large. Some events suggest the Russians are now undermining the British at home, and promoting anti-British sentiment in this country in order to divide the two major democratic allies. The peace has become a diplomatic war in which extreme alertness will be required for a long time, and fluctuations of talk, or what might be called the conversational tone employed, will not be nearly so vital to the world as actions taken. The unchanging basic tone of Russia is that originally expressed by Stalin subtly, when, dealing with Mr. Roosevelt in a conference concerning the Vatican affairs, he softly asked: "How many divisions has the Pope?"

It's An Ill Paper Shortage ...

The public printer is perturbed over the possibility there won't be enough paper to print next year's income tax blanks.

That's the best news for taxpayers since the Ruml plan was reported missing in inaction in a senate subcommittee.

If the paper shortage just holds out, next March 15th will be only the Saturday before St. Patrick's day.

It takes 170 carloads of paper for the blanks alone to say nothing of the quantities required to answer people who write in to ask: "What in —— is Surtax Net Income?"

Shortening the form so as to use less paper is out, of course. The last time treasury experts "simplified" the tax form, they added two additional pages.

And so 65 million hopeful taxpayers are watchfully waiting. If Form 1040 is a permanent casualty of the conflict, the war will not have been fought in vain.

men know the situation. The subsequent decision of Mr. Truman to back Byrnes to the limit saved the policy of American resistance to Russian encroachments from a complete breakdown.

Since then Molotov has been more polite. In general Byrnes has remained away from the com-

Another Baffling Shortage

TO people who remember when their hardware dealer would give them all the nails they needed, the nail shortage is even more "cockeyed" than the meat shortage.

Nails which sold in prewar days at around $3.75 a keg have been reported by the National Housing Agency (NHA) to be bringing as high as $50 a keg in the black market.

Why the scarcity? It's a matter of demands for construction and repair work, combined with the shortage of steel and ceiling prices on nails which have not been high enough to stimulate manufacturers to the required production. Dealers are required to set aside 75 per cent of their monthly deliveries for veterans' housing.

The steel strike lowered the production of nails early this year. The output dropped from an annual rate of 616,000 tons in the third quarter of 1945 to 405,000 tons in the first quarter of 1946. Also, despite substantial price increases granted by OPA, the industry claims it has been more profitable to divert steel wire rods into the production of items other than nails.

Total requirements for 1946, according to the NHA are 795,000 tons. Estimated production is about 592,000 tons. Output in August was 61,000 tons, 18 per cent greater than the July production and two-and-a-half times that of last January. The NHA, however, figures it needs to be stepped up to 85,000 or 90,000 tons a month.

The housing agency has asked Civilian Production Administration (CPA) to request producers of steel wire rods to increase the supply of rods for nails manufacturers sufficiently to enable them to meet the 85,000 to 90,000 tons a month goal. Under a previous informal agreement with CPA, the industry guaranteed to meet goals of 66,000 tons per month by September.

Million Consumptives Die Annually in India

By The Associated Press

BOMBAY, INDIA—Dr. A. C. Ukil, tuberculosis expert for the All-India Institute of Hygiene and Public Health at Calcutta, says 1,000,000 persons a year die of tuberculosis in India and the incidence is growing.

He said statistics indicated that up to one per cent of all inhabitants in rural areas, one to three per cent in small towns and three to seven per cent in larger communities had active tuberculosis, half of them in a communicable stage.

Dr. Ukil said India had only about one hospital bed for each 1,200 cases requiring isolation. Public health workers, he said, hope to obtain government grants of about one rupee per capita, compared with two to three rupees per capita expended for tuberculosis control in western countries.

Prophetic Mr. Gromyko

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 — There is a curious and slightly ominous footnote to the whole row which has been raging in the past week on the Baruch plan for the control of atomic energy. Andrei Gromyko in effect predicted it. In his difficult negotiations with Gromyko, Bernard M. Baruch had naturally drawn considerable strength from the fact that the Baruch plan appeared to have practically unanimous American support, even in such organs of the left as PM. Yet at the time when Gromyko made his disheartening pronouncement, rejecting the Baruch plan "in whole or in part," he privately warned Baruch that this unanimous support would prove illusory. Since then the Wallace letter to the President, containing its strictures on the Baruch plan has been published. In Chicago, the "Conference of Progressives," made up of influential Leftist groups, has repeated these strictures almost verbatim. Mr. Wallace, although forced to change his ground, has continued the attack. Evidently Mr. Gromyko was right.

The Lost Weekend

This is of course not to say that Henry Wallace was ever consciously playing into Mr. Gromyko's hands. No doubt he has acted throughout with the kind of muzzy sincerity which finds hard facts and evident self-contradictions no obstacle. Yet it does seem plausible that Gromyko knew that his allies, the American Communists, had started an all-out drive against the American plan for atomic energy control. And it is interesting that non-Communist liberals who witnessed the goings-on at the Conference of Progressives in Chicago returned convinced that this conference marked the high-water mark of the Communists' determined attempt to penetrate the American liberal movement.

There can be little doubt that the Chicago Conference influenced Wallace to reverse his field. On Friday, Sept. 27, Wallace agreed with Baruch that he had based his criticism of the American proposal to proceed towards atomic control by easy stages (which Wallace had called the "fatal defect") on insufficient information. That weekend, the Conference of Progressives passed a resolution which exactly repeated the Wallace criticism on this point. On Monday, Sept. 30, after fruitless attempts on the part of the Baruch group to reach him all weekend, Wallace called Baruch. What had been "a fatal defect" and "the most important single question" had become in Wallace's mind a "purely procedural" matter. It seems fair to assume that Wallace did not want to let down his fervent admirers in Chicago.

It is therefore significant that many of the leading liberals who attended the Chicago meeting returned furious at the Communist activities there. Here is the sort of thing that went on, according to reports received in Washington.

Odd Goings-On

Philip Murray, CIO president, made an extemporaneous speech, in which he said, among other things, that he had no "damn use for American Communists" meddling in our affairs. A stenographic record of the speech was made available, but this and other similar remarks which Murray had clearly enunciated were mysteriously missing. When Murray saw the original version of the foreign policy program to be adopted at the meeting, he reported to have remarked tartly, "This looks as though it had been written in the Kremlin." He angrily insisted that it be revised.

Henry Morgenthau was confronted with a proposed resolution to the effect that the United States was spending 28 billion dollars to build an aggressive war machine. With some heat he pointed out that this figure included the entire cost of the Veterans Administration, and the resolution was dropped.

Tremendous pressure was put on Harold Ickes to eliminate certain criticisms of Soviet foreign policy in the first drafts of his keynote speech, which was on the whole friendly to Russia. He warned that these criticisms would be greeted by a "poor audience reaction," from many of the delegates, meaning boos and hisses from the Communists and their playmates. It will surprise no one to learn that Ickes said substantially what he had intended to say. Copies of the speech were not made available, however. For some peculiar reason the mimeographing machine had broken down.

The Net Effect

In this speech Ickes characterized the Russian proposal as "childish" compared with "the much sounder proposal of Bernard M. Baruch." Nevertheless, the meeting passed a resolution condemning the Baruch plan on exactly the same basis as Wallace had done in his letter to the President. There was no mention of the "childish" Russian plan. The next day Wallace telephoned Baruch, and warning him, "You won't like this," announced what amounted to a reversal of the position he had taken in his talk with Baruch on the previous Friday. The fat was in the fire, and Gromyko was proved an accurate prophet.

The whole episode has been a messy one. One can continue to admire Wallace for his high idealism, but the part he played in this affair does not seem wholly admirable. Yet if it is true that many liberal leaders who attended the Chicago meeting, including Philip Murray, returned convinced that the Communists must be shaken loose from the liberal movement, the net effect may yet be good. It is not easy to shake Communists loose. But if this country is to have the vigorous and independent liberal movement it so badly needs, it must be done.

Ex-Pfc. Purkey Is Disappointed

DEAR ED.—Well, I just took out my old uniform, oiled my gun and did a little practicing at eating canned eggs on account of I just verified the reports that two big causes of wars, a diplomat and a radio broadcaster, got set free by the War Crimes Court. If Adolf Hitler's radio chiefs and his greaseballs of the diplomatic service did not play a number one part in the blitz of the world, then Bluebeard was a Y.M.C.A. director and Goebbels was Clara Barton.

Like I always said, all wars start with a radio program and get a big assist from the diplomatic service, and you could of knocked me over with a United Nations blueprint to peace when I studies the court verdicts and finds out that Fritzsche and Von Papen did not even get put in charge of the probation officer. The part that gets me is the part where them judges says Fritzsche was a head of the Nazi radio propaganda division and that he made typical Nazi radio speeches, but that the court "is not prepared to hold that his strong radio speeches were intended to incite the Germans."

Well, all I got to say is that if the bright new world is not protected no more than this from the radio, there is no more chance of preventing war than there is of stopping people from blocking subway doors. It was the belchings of Hitler and his boys into the microphone what brought on the war and kept the Heinies thinking it was a good idea. Without them radio speeches even the war-loving Krouts would not of been such pushovers for a rule-the-earth proposition. There is nothing more dangerous to peace at any time than a screwball on the radio, and I rate even the atom bomb a bad second.

They are going to hang Goering and Ke a and a lot of tough muggs as being responsible for the war and its outlaw league stuff, but there was not even in the same league with that Nazi radio gang as causes of war.

Them judges has freed the top radio man under Goebbels and set a precedent which guarantees another world war and gives the starters immunity if they speak directly into the mike.

And as if that was not enough guarantee of a new war, the court turns Von Papen loose and it says he was a fixer, and a big bully who was one of Hitler's right hand men, but that being in the diplomatic service is not no criminal offense. We'll keep the old uniform handy and sleep in a wet hole once in a while because the greaseballs of diplomacy are the boys who do more to make wars than anybody else, and they now have a official ruling that they can stick to the old routine and beat the rap in any courtroom. All them peace leagues might as well disband and UN call everything off and Byrnes come home from Paris. The two best ways to prevent war has now been stymied by court orders.

Pigskin Heroes

By TRUMAN TWILL

Ten million heroes are now hunting scarce football tickets. Take down those ice cards and tell the bakery man to tweet twice. No pasteboard is safe until the ticket hunt calms down.

The ticket is a rectangle of pasteboard cluttered with pictures and symbols which add up to the information that bearer, having performed intricate and mystic rites involving sums of money, is entitled to pass through the sacred portals of the inner sanctum of pigskin.

The desirability of the ticket is enhanced by the fact it cost twice what it is worth if it doesn't rain, due to the fact there are fewer tickets than people, which runs up the bidding. Human beings, it has been discovered, will pay almost anything to say to other human beings, "Ho hum. I have a couple of tickets to use, if I can give away."

Freely translated, this means someone has mortgaged his old mother's dentures to cache two spots behind a goal post and if he doesn't get away it will be because some fiend dropped a stick of atomic bombs across his path and clobbered him from the rear with a bulldozer.

This sort of thing causes tickets to be called coveted pasteboards, which is putting it mildly. Sportswriters, a crew of innocents who think football contests occur on the field, should turn their attention to the stands where the heroes and heroines of the pigskin season are found.

They are the Real Persons who went without pemmican for a couple of weeks to be able to afford an excuse to drive a couple hundred miles in heavy traffic and fight for macaroni and cheese in overcrowded hash houses. They have taken their football tickets to bed with them, clenched them in their teeth while in the bath tub and caressed them a dozen times a day while pretending to be nonchalant about the whole thing. The tickets set them apart from the mob because the mob cannot walk in and buy tickets anywhere—not for the big games. A fellow has to know a man whose best friend is a speaking acquaintance at $10 a word with a gent who knows where to get Tickets. It's like being in Who's Who.

There may be a discrepancy between expectation and realization, because on arrival in pigskin sanctum the ticket owner does not find a red-leather divan with built-in hot dogs and running soda pop, but only a scant five inches of weatherbeaten plank mottled with foot-tracks, dried mustard and soot. But shucks.

The seat isn't much, the guy on the left won't move over, the game is a disappointment and the experience leaves the holder of the coveted pasteboard more dead than alive, but there's only one thing they can't take away from him. He had a ticket. Nine rahs for Lionheart!

Navy To Honor Dead in Annual Services at Sea

Special flower memorial services in honor of all persons who lost their lives at sea in defense of this country in World War II, will be conducted again this year in connection with observance of Navy Day, Sunday, Oct. 27, the Navy League of the United States announced recently. The Navy League has again been named by the Secretary of the Navy to be the official sponsor of Navy Day.

Last year, in appropriate ceremonies, Navy planes and ships scattered flowers over the waters of the world to express the sentiments of a grateful nation.

To afford the people of the United States an opportunity to participate in this traditional ceremony for those who have died at sea, the Secretary of the Navy has designated various port cities within the continental United States to receive flowers for transport to sea on Navy Day.

All flowers received before midnight Saturday, Oct. 26, will be put aboard naval vessels or planes. After appropriate all-faith memorial services the ships and planes will proceed to a point out of sight of land and there the flowers will be scattered on the waters.

Those who wish to take part in these services should contribute only one flower, a blossom or bud, preferably wild or home grown. If flowers are purchased, in no case should the money spent for this purpose exceed a modest sum. A small wreath from an organization is acceptable, however individuals should limit their contributions to a single flower.

Flowers for the Ninth Naval District should be sent to: Navy Recruiting Station, 321 Plymouth Court, Chicago 4, Illinois.

They should arrive prior to midnight, Saturday, Oct. 26.

U. S. PLANS TO EASE LEATHER SHORTAGE

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—Reconversion Director John R. Steelman yesterday announced a program designed to ease "the serious leather shortage" by stepping up imports and holding exports to a minimum.

Steelman said that under the program the civilian production administration will revise its allocation regulations so that so-called base period tanners and contractors may import and process raw cattle hides and calf skins without counting this against their domestic quotas.

No price adjustments will be made on leather from imported raw cattle hides, the announcement said.

However, OPA will adjust the price of leather made from imported raw calf skins to reflect the higher cost of imported skins.

Steelman said exports of hides, skins and leather will be held to a minimum "consistent with proper relations with other countries."

He stressed that the allocation and price programs affect imports only.

"There can be no change in controls over domestic hides and leathers, until there is a better balance between supply and demand," he said.

Herbert Says Lausche Publicly Hits, Secretly Woos, Gamblers

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Thomas J. Herbert, Republican candidate for governor, last night accused Gov. Frank J. Lausche of "publicly condemning and privately wooing the gambling interests of this state" and rapped the state administration's enforcement of anti-gambling laws in Franklin, Mahoning and Trumbull counties specifically.

Herbert spoke with other party candidates at a program in central high school opening the G.O.P. campaign in Franklin county.

"No administration has been so active in publicly condemning and privately wooing the gambling interest of this state as the present governor of Ohio," he declared.

The governor, Herbert charged, dismissed "as a political controversy" a statement by Walter F. Heer, Democratic chairman of Franklin county, that gambling flourishes wide open in the county under the benevolent eye of Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky."

"Was it because Sheriff Sandusky was one of the large contributors to the governor's campaign fund two years ago?" Herbert asked.

John C. Vittulo, Democratic chairman of Mahoning county, was "present with two of his body guards," Herbert asserted, when the governor addressed the Democratic state convention "on law and order."

"Gambling and racketeering are wide-open and more notorious in Youngstown and Mahoning county today than any place in Ohio," Herbert continued, and added: "In no county is the relationship between a Mahoning county chairman and the governor's office as close as in Mahoning county. Why?"

The state liquor board has ordered cases of 35 Trumbull county liquor permit holders charged with possessing slot machines continued to obtain owners' names from the bureau of internal revenue, Herbert said.

"Let the governor ask his friend and present supporter, Mr. Roy S. Hardman, the question of who owns those slot machines and he won't need to wait for that information from the U. S. government," Herbert asserted. Mr. Hardman was formerly the Democratic sheriff of Trumbull county. He was employed as a state liquor inspector by the present governor at $300 a month x x x and x x x resigned Jan. 16, 1946. If you want to know what his business is today, go into Trumbull county and find out who handles slot machines in that area.

Fires Similar Ammunition

On the same program, Paul M. Herbert, candidate for lieutenant governor, fired similar campaign ammunition, declaring:

"In Ohio the New Deal piously preaches to the church people an antigambling crusade, but contributions from commercialized gambling interests pour into its coffers. Its platform pledges freedoom of the civil service, but in a secluded room in a downtown Columbus hotel, civil service employes were herded in and contributions taken not by check but in cash."

He charged that "the present lieutenant governor" (George D. Nye) constructed the region now known as Lake White "by political manipulation x x x at a cost to the taxpayers of over $600,000" and today "no citizen of Ohio may venture upon this property without consent of the present lieutenant governor and his associates" and "lots are being sold at $1,000 apiece."

Bricker Hits CIO

John W. Bricker, Republican candidate for senator, bitterly attacked the CIO's political action committee, declaring that "I hope I never live to serve in public office with the indorsement of the PAC and other Communist-dominated groups."

Bricker answered a challenge from his Democratic opponent, Sen. James W. Huffman, with a statement on Sen. Robert A. Taft's recent condemnation of then Nuernberg war crimes trial procedure.

"The Nuernberg trials are not and will not be a political issue," Bricker declared, and added that his "personal view—was that "while fault may be found with them from a legalistic point of view, they do constitute a step toward the establishment of international law and justice of which the world is so sorely in need.

Upper Sheriff Warns Early Halloweeners

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 9—Sheriff B. H. Stansberry Tuesday issued a warning to early Halloweeners following reports of property destruction from several places in Wyandot county. Sheriff Stansbery said, "It seems necessary to warn people, and the lax parents of some juveniles that Halloween is no excuse for widespread depredations and destruction of property." "Future complaints," he added, "will be promptly investigated, the culprits prosecuted, and the guilty parties or their parents made liable for damages."

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

SERMONETTES COMPARED

Editor of The Star: In the issue of The Star dated Sept. 21, 1946, I found a Sermonette entitled "Drunkards Go to Hell," in which the writer points out the dangers of drinking and what it eventually leads to.

In the Oct. 3 issue of the same paper appeared another Sermonette by another person contradicting the statements made in the first sermon. This one was entitled "Drunkards Are Not Sinners."

To determine which of the conflicting sermons is right, let us turn to the highest authority—the Bible. The Holy Bible is the word of God, and God's Word is Truth.

We now find that the writer of the first article used references from the Bible, but the second writer had nothing with which to back up his statements, thereby showing that the statement, "Drunkards Go to Hell" was not "according to the writer of the sermon" but was according to God's Word." Some of the Scriptures that prove this are Proverbs 20:1, Isaiah 5:11, Habakkuk 2:15 and Galatians 5:19-21.

We must study our Bible to "rightly divide the Word of Truth." Jesus said: "No man can serve two masters, for either he will hate the one, and love the other, or he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon.'

"Be not deceived, God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." —Galatians 6:7.

"For the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Romans 6:23.

Britain Not Yet Abandoning Base in Mediterranean

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Britain's "tentative" plan for consolidating her Middle Eastern defenses far south of the present Egypt - Palestine - Transjordan-Iraq line does not imply that the Lion is through ranging the Mediterranean's shores.

It is true that the British, often accused of holding these ancient lands in durance vile, are rearranging their Suez defenses in an effort to clear their skirts in Egypt and elsewhere. But talk of moving key administrative and supply bases to Kenya and Tanganyika means establishment of defenses in depth, not withdrawal. And the big implication is that Africa will be developed as a primary base of supply.

Source Noted

As a side issue, it is interesting to note that the "proposed" plan was not announced, but came instead from an "authoritative war office source" who apparently made himself available to both domestic and foreign reporters in London. Just why this happened at this time would probably prove more interesting than the details of the plan itself since, after all, they appear from the military standpoint to be little more than peacetime preparation for a possible repetition of what happened in the last war. The political implications, as DeWitt Mackenzie pointed out here yesterday, are legion, involving the Palestine problem, Russia's position among the Arab states which are seeking an end to British hegemony, Turkey and Greece vis-a-vis Russia, as well as the direct national interests of the individual Middle Eastern countries.)

The British military program in east Africa area actually began in 1942 after the Japanese made a pass at Ceylon which did considerable damage and thoroughly frightened its defenders, and when Rommel was knocking at the gates of Alexandria and Cairo. East Africa suddenly became a "rear area" for empire forces in both the Near and Far East. Alexandria was abandoned for the time-being. Haifa and Mombasa became important points of British naval concentration. First class air installations were strung out over Kenya and Tanganyika, the latter a former German territory under British mandate, to tie in with the American-developed supply system to west Africa, Khartoom and Egypt.

Simultaneously with these military moves the British foreign office was working on its plan of development for Uganda, Kenya, the Sudan and Africa generally, a plan which now fits well into the picture of great new administrative and supply bases.

Little Change in Line

Since the British are expected ultimately to substitute bases at Tobruk and Bengazi for their present installations in Alexandria, the "front line" of Middle East defenses would be little changed, but it would be relieved of the duty of protecting supply routes, and would be protected by a well-organized rear from the isolation which so seriously threatened it in World War II.

Whether Britain is merely announcing something she began during the war, or whether she is accepting a new conception of defense in an age of atomic and aerial weapons, there is one fixed point about which the rest revolves. She is not making nor permitting herself to be forced into, any change which opens a threat to her oil holdings in the Middle East. Those wells, refineries and pipelines are as vital to her as her navy, which depends upon them. No matter what political considerations intervene, only overwhelming force will ever separate her from them.

Guard Company Holds Machine Gun Drill

Members of Co. M, Ohio State Guard, held machine gun platoon drill Tuesday night at their weekly meeting at the armory under direction of S/Sgt. Lawrence Edgington.

Chemical platoon drill was directed by S/Sgt. Robert McEldowney.

Plans were made to furnish a color guard for ceremonies to be held at the court house Thursday and Friday nights by the Disabled American Veterans.

A report was given by officers of the company who attended the state guard officers convention at Columbus recently.

A recruit was enlisted in Theodore Taylor, a Navy dischargee and former Co. M member.

Ray Wilson and Robert Haycraft were reenlisted.

AAF GETS CONTROL OF GUIDED MISSLES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—The Army Air Forces took over control of research into guided missiles today, thereby ending a two-year dispute within the war department over the development of such weapons of future warfare.

An order by Secretary of War Patterson placing the army ordnance department in a subordinate role was issued with the avowed purpose of attaining "the most efficient utilization of scientific talent and engineering facilities."

W. Stuart Symington, the war department's under secretary for air, said in announcing the order "it is possible that there has never been a more important decision in connection with the future of our defense structure." Symington noted it would centralize authority and responsibility and "will save the taxpayers many millions of dollars."

The jurisdictional dispute between the air forces and the ordnance department dates back to a 1944 order issued by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, then deputy chief of staff. This assigned to ordnance development of missiles launched from the ground which depend primarily upon momentum for their flight. This covered the Nazi V-2 with which ordnance had been experimenting.

The air forces, contending in vain that it should control all air weapons, was given responsibility only for those depending primarily on aerodynamic forces. This meant weapons with wings.

To resolve the dispute and to prevent overlapping in other kinds of military research, the war department last summer set up a new general staff section, the scientific research and development division, under Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand.

Aurand still will have to decide just what is a guided missile. Also Patterson's decision failed to assign to any military arm the responsibility for actual use of new weapons.

By The Associated Press

AKRON, O., Oct. 9—James F Bickett, 50, who testified he killed his stepdaughter because he disapproved of her contemplated marriage, was under a first degree murder conviction today.

He was convicted yesterday by three common pleas judges who recommended mercy, making life imprisonment mandatory. Sentence was expected to be imposed within 10 days

Bickett pleaded guilty to killing 20-year-old Mary Theresa Baranyos last April 27 in a Cuyahoga Falls supermarket where she was employed.

Defense attorneys argued the crime was not premeditated because "it was the result of a sick mind."

ORLD FLIGHT N BALANCE

ojected B-29 Feat Hangs on State Department's Diplomatic "If."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — Final vernment approval of a pro- ed globe girdling flight by as ny as two dozen B-29 Super- resses hung today on a dip- matic "if."

Officials predicted privately at the state department prob- ly will approve the Army Air rces plans for the flight — if me way can be found to mini- ze the veture as a type of "big ick" displomacy.

The problem confronting the te department is that what- er may be the intentions behind project, diplomats here and foreign offices around the rld appear certain to read in- it various political implica- ns.

Source of Concern

This is a source of concern to merican officials who contend at United States relations with ssia—although based at pres- t on Secretary of State Byrnes' licy of "firmness"—must be pt in balance. They particular- do not want to present any idence of sword-rattling or er gestures which might up- world affairs at a particularly ifficult juncture.

Russia already has built a opaganda campaign around at critics call anti-Soviet erican diplomacy. Furthermore rmer Secretary of commerce nry A. Wallace here as well as rious leaders abroad have rais- a major issue over what they riously term a "tough policy" ward Russia or the need for new approach to Russian rela- ns.

The round-the-world flight as announced to a news nference late yesterday by dersecretary of War W. Stuart mington.

He said the flight would go by y of Cairo, India and the Pa- ic, would include between ht and 24 of the army's heav- t regular service bombers and finitely would be made in the xt few weeks "if the state de- rtment approves."

No Immediate Decision

At the state department, of- ials promptly let it be known at they had only a vague fore owledge of Symington's an- uncement. They added they uld make no decision before ceiving the formal proposal.

Some expected the whole mat- ter might have to go before Pres- ident Truman.

Symington made two state- ments to newsmen implying dip- lomatic significance in the project.

He said "this flight will com- pare with round-the-world voy- ages made in earlier days by the American fleet."

He also declared that the "air forces must be considered of pri- mary importance" in carrying out United States national policies.

Describing the B-29 "the only production airplane capable of carrying an atom bomb," Sym- ington said "few people realize what a revolution in military de- velopment has been effected" by the development of the Super- fortress.

OHIO BEGINS DRIVE ON CANADIAN STOCKS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9 — The state securities division has be- gun a campaign against the sale of unregistered Canadian se- curities, Ernest Cornell, chief of the division, announced today.

The Stark county grand jury yesterday indicted three Canad- ians and their companies on charges of selling gold mine stock without being licensed as Ohio dealers. Cornell said it marked the start of the drive.

Cornell said the Canadians had taken "several thousands of dol- lars" from residents of Canton, Massillon, Alliance, Dayton and other Ohio cities.

The indictments against Gor- don C. McMackmen, Joseph C. McGuire and Harold McBride Hawn, all of Toronto, were the first actions taken by the state against Canadian gold stock sales since 1945.

Trial of the indicted persons and companies, Cornell said, was impossible because there was no extradition treaty between Can- ada and the United States. Such a treaty has been completed but not been signed by Canada.

Unregistered Canadian stocks are a recurring nuisance, Cornell said, explaining that the state had previously taken 51 actions against 55 defendants.

The stock sales ranged from $100 to $20,000, Cornell said, adding that the latter sum was lost by a doctor.

LAUSCHE

Ohio to the fact that something can be done toward cleaning up conditions."

To Give Full Story

Lausche promised that when his campaign really starts he would give a "full narration concerning law enforcement as it was in the past and is now."

Concerning Herbert's charges that slot machine operators at Warren had not yet been prose- cuted, Lausche said that "if the representative of the attorney general had been alert, he would have obtained proof that I had to write for and spend my time getting."

He referred to information con- cerning slot machines obtained from the U. S. internal revenue department. Liquor hearings have been scheduled for Oct. 15 and 17.

Commenting on Herbert's state- ment regarding his (Herbert's) grand jury investigation of racke- teering in Mahoning county when Herbert was attorney general, Lausche said:

"The probe made by my op- ponent in which $75,000 of state money was spent produced a ridiculous and shocking result. Racketeers were sentenced to jail and allowed to remain there only a few days of each week spend- ing the rest of the time free."

Herbert last night accused Lausche of "publicly condemning and privately wooing the gambling interests of this state" and rapped the state aministration's enforce- ment of anti-gambling laws in Franklin, Mahoning and Trum- bull counties specifically.

Oldtime Chicago Ward Boss Kenna Stricken

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 — Michael (Hinky Dink) Kenna, leader of a ward political dynasty founded before the first Chicago World Fair in 1893, died today.

The "Little Fellow" of long re- membered campaign battles was either 88 or 91 years old; Kenna's word and the records varied. He died in a room of the Blackstone hotel in the city's first ward that he loved so well and ruled so long in partnership with the late "Bathhouse John" Coughlin.

BEEF INDUSTRY ASKS PRICE REMOVAL. Beef advisory committee has authorized the filing of a petition to remove price ceilings from cattle, beef and veal. The committee authorized Roscoe G. Haynie, left, committee chairman and vice president of Wilson and Company, to sign the appeal. Shown with Haynie in the Washington meeting is Arval Erikson, OPA executive officer for the meats, fish, fats and oils branch.

ional campaign committee, re- torted: "Apparently the Democrat does not recall its party has been in control of congress."

2. The OPA disclosed that 24 different industries—ranging from beef packers to representatives of the coffee, cosmetics, women's hosiery and facial tissue indus- tries—are trying to win freedom from price controls.

3. In Chicago, the National As- sociation of Retail Grocers said a 38-state survey of retailers in 68 cities disclosed that meat sup- plies in September were only 18 per cent of the meat received in August, when price controls were off.

In Washington, the agriculture department said meat produced under federal inspection last week was up five per cent over the previous week, but was 69 per cent below the correspond- ing week of 1945.

4. Beef industry leaders voted 11 to 1 to press their battle against price ceilings on meat. But their action, in the form of a petition to Secretary of Agriculture An- derson, will be delayed by tech- nicalities until the end of this week or early next week.

5. Rep. Jed Johnson (D-Okla) said he strongly urged Secretary Anderson to lift meat price con- trols and added, "I took it he agreed with me. As I recall it, he said, 'you may be right'."

6. The OPA considered possible means of spreading the meat sup- ply of a fair-share-for-all basis. An OPA official told a reporter that meat buyers living near slaughters are getting more meat than distant purchasers.

Sound Cheery Note

Meanwhile, the bureau of agri- cultural economics sounded a cheery note on the general over- all food situation for 1947. It said per capita consumption should equal this year's level, which it described as 15 per cent higher than the pre-war 1935-39 average.

The bureau forecast more beef and veal for 1947—but less pork, lamb and mutton—and said there should be enough meat for each American to consume between 140 and 145 pounds during the year.

On the bright side of the pic- ture, the bureau sail supplies of sugar, butter, lard, evaporated milk, cheese, citrous fruits, can- ned and frozen fruit, wheat flour, corn products, rice and fish are expected to be somewhat larger in 1947.

While Republicans took the lead in drumming up support for meat decontrols, "The Democrat" said flatly an impartial investiga- tion of the meat shortage "will place the blame right where it belongs—not on price control but on the Republican members of congress who last June voted 4 to 1 to cripple price control and by so doing upset the meat sup- ply."

The article said that by the end of August, when the decon- trol board decided meat price ceilings had to be reinstated, prices had risen 70 per cent for the kind of meat that most house- wives want to buy for their fam- ilies.

Bricker Says 36,000 Butchers Close Doors

By The Associated Press

TIFFIN, O., Oct. 9—Former Gov. John W. Bricker declared today that "price control in peace- time America" had forced 36,000 meat dealers throughout the na- tion to close their doors.

"There is something wrong," the Republican nominee for U. S. senator said in a prepared address, "when the packing industry is compelled to lay off more than half its employes, when hospitals must beg the department of agri- culture and the OPA to get meat, when meat practically vanishes from the American table.

"And what is wrong is price control in peacetime America. This policy, if continued, will convert our American system of free enterprise into a totalitarian web of controlled economy.

"The American people cannot afford to compromise with [illegible] against dictatorship, whether it be within or outside the United States."

Big Vote Seen as Tip of Democratic Victory

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Heavy voter registrations were seen to- day as presaging Democrat success in the Nov. 5 election by Clarence H. Knisley, party campaign di- rector.

"The heavy registration in the industrial centers of the state, plus the hearty response to Governor Lausche's courageous stand against rackets and gambling in all sec- tions of Ohio, spell victory for the Democratic ticket in Novem- ber," Knisley said in a statement.

"The people of Ohio know that during the Republican tenure in the state house, nothing was done to suppress big gambling estab- lishments except by Mr. Lausche, then mayor of Cleveland," he added.

Record breaking registrations in several cities before the Tuesday deadline led the secretary of state to predict 2,000,000 of some 3,500,000 qualified voters would cast ballots in next month's elec- tion.

Duck Hunter's Ack-Ack Attack Brings Police

By The Associated Press

GREENVILLE, Mich., Oct. 9— The next time Jack Hansen sees a low-flying airplane he'll prob- ably be content to just wave at it.

Police said Hansen, 28, was duck hunting when a plane flew low over the area, becoming irked, police reported, he fired a shot- gun charge and a number of pel- lets struck the plane.

The pilot, Ralph Bollinger of Lakeview, reported the incident and Hansen was brought into jus- tice court yesterday on an assault charge. He waived examination and was bound over to circuit court for trial.

RUSS CLAIM EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—A Rus- sian plan to stake claim to the highly important Ryukyu chain of islands between Japan and For- mosa — among them blood- drenched Okinawa—is frankly an- ticipated in American diplomatic quarters. U. S. PROBE OF TIFFIN VET PROJECT SET

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—Federal housing officials promised today a survey of veterans housing activities at Tiffin, O., de- scribed by Rep. Weichel, (R- Ohio) as a "disgrace."

Weichel said in a telegram to Housing Administrator Wilson Wyatt that a "war veterans tem- porary housing project at Tiffin has done nothing for more than four weeks."

"The city officials and the vet- erans have informed me of the utter disregard of this project by the federal public authorities who are not on the job seeing that material is there and the work is performed," Weichel tele- graphed Wyatt, adding:

"You have authority to take every piece of material for vet- erans housing but those you have put in charge are only giving lip service. It is time that such offi- cials should be removed and the project carried forward immedi- ately. It is not necessary that city officials and war veterans get on their knees to those that you have put in charge. It is a disgrace, the manner in which it is now being handled."

FHA officials told a reporter they had advised Weichel that a field man was being sent to the project.

The crowd was in an ugly mood when it arrived at the pal- ace for the third straight day, and its temper grew steadily uglier. The workmen, from the public works department, were to be discharged Saturday.

Several in the crowd were heard to shout as the police moved upon them:

"This is no better than Fas- cism."

Before the police were rein- forced, scores of demonstrators had pushed past the regular guards into the government build- ing, where they broke furniture and shattered windows.

Many of the injured, including policemen, were reported in a serious condition.

One of the armored cars circu- lating through the crowd opened fire and there were three loud explosions that sounded like hand grenades.

Georgia Solon Advises Bolt from Democrats

By The Associated Press

MACON, Ga., Oct. 9—Rep. Eugene Cox (D-Ga), longtime ad- ministration critic, called upon the south today to put its own welfare first and break with tra- ditional support of the Democratic party if it continues association with the CIO political action com- mittee.

In a bitter keynote speech pre- pared for the Georgia state Demo- cratic convention, summoned to ratify nomination of Eugene Tal- madge as next governor of Geor- gia, Cox castigated outgoing executive Ellis Arnall as a tool of those who would end white supremacy in the south, and de- scribed the PAC as "Sidlin's hand."

Lausche Calls Warren Power Strike Parley

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Gov. Lausche today called a conference for tomorrow morning at 11:45 o'clock between the mayor of Warren, officials of the Ohio Pub- lic Service Company and officers of the striking CIO Utility Work- ers in that city.

The utility workers left their jobs Monday in support of de- mands for an 18-cents hourly in- crease in pay ranging from 80 cents to $1.50 an hour. The strike curtailed service to approximate- ly 75,000 residents in Warren and nearby Niles.

Supervisory employes continued working to provide service for hospitals and other essential users.

Lausche said he might also invite the mayor of Niles to par- ticipate in the conference.

Curfew Clamped On 2 Jerusalem Suburbs

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Oct. 9—British military authorities clamped a strict house curfew on two Jeru- salem suburbs and two Jewish settlements at the city's borders at dawn today on the heels of a mine explosion that killed two soldiers and wounded a lieutenant colonel and two other occupants of an army truck last night.

Three hours after the curfew was imposed in the suburbs— fashionable Talpioth and Givat Shaul—and the settlements of Ra- mat Rahel and Motsa, officers re- ported they had found 84 charges of explosives, a half dozen small guns and quantities of ammuni- tion in private homes but had made no arrests.

ACT TO STRENGTHEN RUSS FARM SYSTEM

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Oct. 9—The Soviet government and the Communist party took action at the highest levels today to strengthen the collective farm system and store this year's bread-grain crop with- out loss from carelessness or plundering.

A new council for collective farm affairs was created with politburo member A. A. Andreyev as chairman. Andreyev served as wartime commissar of agriculture.

His council, established by de- cree of the Soviet union's council of ministers and the central com- mittee of the Communist party, was given authority to set up a system of inspection of collective farms. Inspectors will answer only to the council and will be independent of local authorities.

Announcement of the new set- up followed by several weeks the disclosure of a sweeping inves- tigation into mal-administration of collective farms, as a result of which charges were filed against a number of administrators.

Simultaneously with the an- nouncement of the creation of the new council, Pravda editorialized strongly against laziness, laxity thieving on collective farms.

Some local party and Soviet agencies are not providing their grain quotas for the state on the specified dates, Pravda said, men- tioning the Rostov, Chkalov, Kur- gan, Saratovo and Ivanovo dis- tricts.

some time, Mr. Montgomery said. Because of feed shortages many farmers already have been forced to start using their winter feed supply for their livestock, while others sold their cattle when ceil- ings were off and prices were high.

Production Falls Off

Most agricultural officials agree that milk production in the Mar- ion county area has slumped dur- ing the last few months. Records of the Marion County Dairy Serv- ice Cooperative show that during August many cows checked by the dairy tester showed a marked decrease in production. Dry pas- tures during the summer were partly responsible for the de- crease, farm officials believe.

While dairy subsidies were in effect, the AAA office made dairy subsidy payments to 1,357 milk producers in Marion county. From the time the subsidy program be- gan in October 1943 until it was suspended June 30, 1946, $462,- 694.02 was paid to Marion county milk producers by the govern- ment to offset price ceilings.

OPA Official Hints at Shoe Price Jump

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—Prices for some shoes may jump soon as a result of a move to increase pro- duction, an OPA official said today.

He told a reporter that a price hike authorized for imported calf skins may push up the cost of men's and women's dress shoes in which calf leather is used.

Reconversion Director John R. Steelman authorized higher prices for imported calf skins and leather yesterday in a move to avert what he termed a threatened 40 to 50 per cent cut in shoe production in the next three months.

One factor involved in Steel- man's action is the sharp decline in domestic hide production re- sulting from the small number of meat animals moving to market.

Cambridge Man Charged with Shooting To Kill

By The Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, O., Oct. 9—Clyde Taylor, 48, today was charged with shooting to kill Ross Puttle during target practice at his home in nearby Quaker City and Sher- iff Wilmer O. Oliver said Taylor also would be charged with wounding 75-year-old Mrs. Dora Clary.

Puttle ducked behind a tree when the shooting began, Oliver said, but Mrs. Clary was wounded three times. Her condition was re- ported by a hospital as not serious.

Taylor pleaded innocent to the shooting charge in the court of Justice of the Peace William E. Bean here and was bound over to the grand jury. He was lodged in jail in default of $1,000 bond.

Oliver previously quoted Taylor as saying "I'd [illegible] and expressing [illegible] over the in- cident.

Cabbies To Resume Grid Warfare Saturday Against Dayton Bombers

Crack Colored Outfit Invades Stadium for Semi-Pro Tussle

By GEORGE ROEST

After a lull of two weeks the Safety Cab A. C. will resume gridiron hostilities at the Harding stadium Saturday night. The highly-touted all colored Dayton Bombers will be the Cabbies' opponents in the fray. Kick-off is at 8 30.

Dayton will bring a record of two wins and no defeats to the stadium while the Marion semi-pros managed to pack a win, a tie and a loss into the first eight days of their season.

The Cabbies have been idle as far as their schedule is concerned but Coach Fetter has taken advantage of this breathing spell to round his squad into a smooth-operating, aggressive outfit. His practice tilts have been rough and the team is expected to prove quite a match for the Dayton club.

Injuries Clear Up

Injuries sustained by the Marion team have cleared up and the Cabbies will present their full strength against the Bombers Charlie Lust, right tackle, who, because of an injury acquired at Galion, was out of the lineup in the Alliance game, will be ready go and end Ollie Snitzler, also out because of the Galion game, will see action this Saturday night. Jim Gilmore, another end, probably will be out most of the season because of multiple injuries inflicted by Galion.

The Dayton club opened its season two weeks ago with a win over the Red Cadets of Louisville This team is rated as one of the best semi-pro outfits in the Blue Grass state. Their second victory was at the expense of the Columbus Wiens.

Have College Experience

Much of the Dayton talent has had college experience. Players have been drawn from Dunbar, Wilberforce, Alabama State and other colleges. The Dayton team probably will spot the Marion club around 20 pounds per man in the weight department This beef shortage will be overcome by crafty ball handling and above average speed.

Lyn Gorden, diminutive halfback for Dayton, is expected to be the chief threat to the Cabbies' defense. He has proved himself adept at cracking the opposition's forward walls. What he will do against the stubborn Marion defense remains to be seen.

The Cabbies have been concentrating on the accepted football formations in their practices along with several others which are quite a contrast to the usual set-ups.

Max Roseberry and Don Freese have recently joined the squad. Roseberry is out for righthalf and Freese is making a bid for the center position.

Dayton can expect plenty of trouble from the Marion club, especially the Cabbie guards Martin Lewis and Bob Strobel. Another player who has been making it tough for opposing backs is end Howard Richardson.

In the backfield Ed Simmons has been showing impressively and probably will play quarterback against the Bombers. Nick Cafagno also is slated to see his share of action in the backfield Punting chores will be handled by Fred Ruhl and Bob Slatzer may be the place kicker.

This game will be broadcast by WMRN.

UPPER SANDUSKY TO PLAY EDISON JUNIOR

Sport enthusiasts are urged to attend the Edison Junior High-Upper Sandusky game tomorrow afternoon at the Harding stadium The kick off is scheduled for 4 15

This is the first game in a series that the junior high schools are to be playing with out of town schools Vernon will go to Upper Sandusky Oct. 17 and Central will visit Bexley Oct. 24 The final game will be an All-Star contest with Bexley at the stadium Nov. 14.

Kenny Somerlot's Edison team has not fared too well against the other Marion junior highs but has given a good account of itself in its contests with Vernon and Central.

Persons who witnessed the first two junior high games were impressed with the hard playing of the junior teams and agree that the experience the players are getting will prove invaluable to both the boys and the high school in later seasons. The junior highs have long had a football athletic program but this year the program is much more extensive and it is hoped that it will become financially self sufficient.

Attendance at the first two games has been approximately 1,500 each night and it is hoped that these figures will be boosted before the season is completed. It was impossible to hold all the games under the lights as first planned but tomorrow's contest will be the only afternoon game played at Harding stadium. Five more contests remain to be played under the lights.

Jockey in "Fair" Shape After Columbus Spill

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Edward Fayard, 17, New Orleans apprentice rider, was in "fair" condition today at Mt. Carmel hospital where it was reported he suffered a possible brain concussion in a two-horse spill at Beulah Park's running races yesterday. Kenneth Robertson, 26, Cincinnati, suffered head cuts in the accident which occurred in the third race. Robertson's mount, Mitzi Walker, stumbled and fell, and Corner Star, ridden by Fayard, tumbled over her.

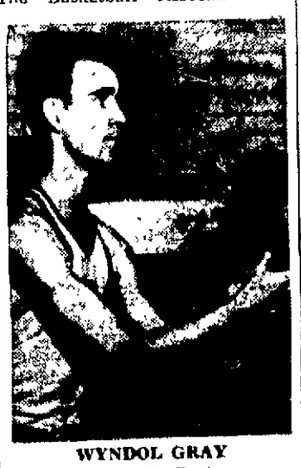
Professional Cagers Join Sports Gold Rush

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Professional basketball is the latest sport to climb aboard the postwar Gold Rush. The Basketball Association of America, a new 11-team group backed by owners of arenas where ice hockey is played, begins operations on an intersectional scale Nov. 1.



WYNDOL GRAY
Signs with Boston

There will be an Eastern and a Western Division with each quintet playing 60 games, half of them on the road The same system as employed by pro hockey and pro football leagues will be in operation with teams from both sections clashing.

The season will run until the end of March with the Eastern winner meeting the West's victor in a mid-April playoff.

The teams and home courts:

Eastern Division
New York	Gardens
Philadelphia	Arena
Washington	Uline Arena
Boston	Garden
Pittsburgh	Duquesne Gardens
Providence	Auditorium
Western Division
Chicago	Stadium
Detroit	Olympia
Cleveland	Arena
St. Louis	Arena
Toronto	Toronto Gardens

"It's the most ambitious undertaking in professional basketball history," says Maurice Podoloff, president of the new league and also head of the American Hockey League. "Therefore, we don't expect to make money the first season.

"We will not tamper with players who still have college eligibility," Podoloff added.

Player Draft Likely

It is believed college stars will be placed in a draft similar to the pool used by pro football to decide which teams will have first call on certain collegians.

The Philadelphia Warriors, coached by Ed Gottlieb, will have such stars as Fred Sheffield, a "whiz kid" from Utah's 1944 NCAA champs and former national high jump rule; George Sanesky of St. Joseph's and Art Hillhouse of L. I. U.

Philadelphia also has the Sphas, one of the top teams in the rival American League.

Chicago's new team probably will get opposition from the Chicago Gears, boasting George Mikan of DePaul and Max Morris of Northwestern. The Gears will play their National League tests in the Amphitheatre.

Olsen Coaching Chicago

Chicago's new club in the BBAA has the benefit of one of the best coaches in the business in Harold G. Olson, who last season led Ohio State to the Big Ten championship. He coached the Buckeyes 24 years and last season the nation's college basketball coaches named him as "the man who has done the most for basketball over a period of years."

The New York Knickerbockers will be coached by Neil Cohalan, ex-Manhattan College mentor. Three of his players will be Hy Gotkin of St. John's, Ralph Kaplowitz of N.Y.U. and Ossie Schectman of L.I.U.

Washington's Capitols have John Mahnken, six-foot-seven ex-Georgetown star, as their top hand The Providence Steam Rollers feature Ernie Calverley who broke many scoring records while playing for Rhode Island State Detroit will be known as the Falcons.

The Boston Celtics will be coached by Honey Russell, the old pro player. Wyandol Gray, formerly of Bowling Green and Harvard, is their star performer.

Cleveland Looks Strong

Cleveland appears to have one of the stronger teams in the west. Three of its players are Bobby Faught, who set scoring records at Notre Dame in 1942; Kenny Sailors of Wyoming and Mel Riebe, former Great Lakes coach and once top National League point getter. Dutch Dehnert, basketball's ace pivot man when he played with the Original Celtics, is coaching Cleveland.

The St. Louis Bombers will be coached by Ken Loeffler, former Yale mentor, while Toronto, using Maple Leaf Gardens, has Ed Sadowski of Seton Hall, Orange, N. J. He will be a player-coach. One of his stars is Bill Kotsores of St. John's.

Pat Kennedy, regarded from here to the mid-west as the nation's No. 1 referee, will be the chief official.

President Podoloff, who built the New Haven, Conn., Arena in 1926 and has been president of the American Hockey League since 1936, organized the new BBAA, yet he doesn't have a team.

LITTLE DAVIDSON IN TOP GRID STATISTICS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Although the quality of its opposition to date may be open to question, Little Davidson (N. C.) college stands out today as the football team having gained more ground and wielded less, on the average, than any other collegiate club in nation.

Figures just released by the National Collegiate Bureau speak well for the offensive and defensive efforts of the Southern Conference eleven but are so overwhelming as to be almost insulting to its first two foes of the 1946 campaign—Erskine and Wofford.

In these two games, Davidson rolled up a total of 912 yards in 110 ground plays and 258 per game.

At the same time, Davidson held these two opponents to a combined net total of three yards.

Its reign may be short-lived, however, for this week Davidson runs smack into North Carolina State, the Southern Conference dark horse which already has whipped Duke, 13-6, and Clemson, 14-7.

Meanwhile, a Texas team which was voted the best in the land in the first Associated Press poll of the season has traveled farther than any of them—1,461 yards in three games.

That yardage, compiled in 174 plays against Missouri, Colorado and Oklahoma A. and M., puts the longhorns in the No. 3 slot in total offense with an average of 487 yards by rushing and passing together.

Novice Caledonia 6-Man Gridders, Who Had To Borrow Pants, Now Lead Loop

Coach Thurman Wright's Caledonia six-man football team, which started practice Aug. 20 without uniforms and had to borrow the necessary pants from Claridon and LaRue, is now leading the Marion county league with three victories and no defeats. With a group of husky, active boys to work together Coach Wright has introduced the abbreviated gridiron sport to the east-siders in a sensational manner. The boys have picked up the fundamentals of blocking and tackling in the shortest time possible and are now operating with the smoothness of a veteran crew. Wright came to Caledonia from Custalia, near Sandusky where he directed the six-man game.

Prospect with a well-lighted field is one of the few teams playing six-man football at night. Coach Hurd with several years experience in coaching regulation football has been handicapped because of injuries to several of his promising players. People who think that six-man football is only outdoor basketball and similar to touch should take a look at Prospect's injured list. The down-county team has had the misfortune to have one of the starters receive a severe injury in each of the three games played. Even though the Prospect team has several fast runners and all are good hard tacklers, the blocking has not been on a par with the other phases of the game.

Claridon Squad Experienced

Coach Robert Pearson who took over the athletic reins at Claridon this year from A. B. Augenstein had a squad of boys with some experience in the game. Although Pearson is in his first year as a coach and lacked experience in the abbreviated sport his team has shown a lot of improvement. The team features the power running of Jim Ruth and the passing of Gene Ruth.

LaRue after several seasons of success in the sport, winning 26 consecutive games after quitting the regulation game in 1942, came up this year with a group of boys who were small and inexperienced. The largest player on the squad, Loren Gillispie, weighs only 160 pounds. Gillispie had been a regular on the team of 1945, but had been used chiefly as an offensive quarterback and had very little experience on defense. After three straight defeats to Claridon, Caledonia and Clyde the west-siders caught fire Friday night at Prospect and began to show much promise. Three of the boys playing most of the game Friday are only sophomores.

115-Pound Fullback

The LaRue fullback Thomas Parker weighs only 115 and is just over five feet tall. He has been a member of the squad for four years and had played only intermittently until the game with Clyde when he took over the fullpacking job and carried the ball for good gains against the big Northern Ohio team

Many fans who are acquainted with regulation football would enjoy a game of the six-man variety The game is fast and long runs frequent It has all the tricks and deception found in the eleven man contest. It is much easier to see the line play of the two teams and the blocking can be appreciated.

Rule Differences Small

The chief differences in the rules are only a few The field is smaller being only 100 yards by 40 yards. The goal posts are wider and lower. A conversion after touchdown counts two points if made by a place or drop kick and the only one point if made by running or passing. Before the ball can be carried across the line of scrimmage a clear pass must be made in the backfield by the first player to receive the snap from center. A pass or bunt is allowed without the clear pass.

All players on the team are eligible to receive a pass. This makes the defense harder to play as four and five men must be covered with a like number of defense men. In the regulation game only four or five are eligible, but the defense has many more men to cover them As the defense cannot be so compact the distance to gain is 15 yards in four downs instead of 10.

The rules allow any player to pick up a fumble and run with the ball anywhere. All the standard formations used in regulation football are used in six-man. As the ball must be handled in the backfield and a clear pass made or running plays the quarterback is generally played under the center as in the well known T formation.

Adapted for Small Schools

The game is well adapted to use by small high schools where the number of boys enrolled is too small for regular football It has brought football and the love of a contact sport to the small crossroads schools. Several players have jumped from the abbreviated game to college teams. The best case known locally is Merle Lashey, former Claridon player now at Ohio Wesleyan who performs in the Bishops' backfield. One of Nebraska's better ball carriers last year was a graduate of the abbreviated game.

The game originated in Nebraska in a small high school in 1934 and has grown by leaps and bounds. Although the war held up the development of the game because of a lack of coaches in the smaller schools it is estimated that approximately 8 000 schools play the sport. It is used in many large schools for an intra-mural sport and by Junior high teams to develop fundamentals.

Games in the Marion county league Friday are Claridon at LaRue and Prospect at Caledonia. A game is also scheduled for Thursday afternoon between the reserve squads of LaRue and Caledonia. The first contest will be played at Caledonia.

Big Nine To Vote On Permanent Rose Bowl Hookups With Pacific Loop

SU, Iowa, Indiana, Michigan elieved Favoring 5-Year Pact

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—A five-year contract, whereby the Western ference would gain unprecedented prestige as well as lush cash by controlling the selection of teams to meet the Pacific representative in the Rose Bowl, is being put to a vote for or approval by the nine conference members.

Ohio State, Iowa and Indiana were reported unofficially to the post-season football ar- ment with Michigan a pos- . The only definite action, far, has been taken by the faculty senate which voted proval. Illinois probably will on the negative side by sota and possibly Purdue. e is no hint from Northwest- Wisconsin, although the voted no when Ohio State ht to play in the Rose Bowl 944.

he faculty committees govern- athletics have been asked by Big Nine faculty committee the question and most are expected to call meet- within the next two weeks. he vote is favorable the Rose l tieup could become effec- in ample time for the game New Year's day.

he contract, if approved, ld embody these provisions:

1. It would be a five-year eement between the two con- ences.

2. Each conference will des- ate its representative team.

3. No school would be com- ed to participate.

4. No conference members ld participate more than once three years.

5. During the first three years y a Western Conference uni- ty would participate and for remaining two years any uni- sity designated by the Big e could be named. (Thus Notre me, Michigan State and Mar- ette could represent the Mid- st if the conference so desired. re Dame, which follows ely Big Nine standards, has de one appearance in the Rose wl, beating Stanford 27-10 in 3.)

6. Payment of expenses plus a ain share of the receipts, to split equally among the Big e members.

7. Limited pregame practice riods.

8. The game to be played entirely under the auspices of the two conferences, although the Big Nine could name any university it chose as western representative. This naturally would mean, an official said, that universities to be selected must conform to the Western Conference regulations.

Alfred R. Masters, general athletics manager at Stanford, and Clinton W. Davis, manager of athletics at the University of California, expressed hope that the Big Nine would accept the proposed hookup. Unofficially, it was believed the Pacific Coast conference would unanimously agree to the pact.

BUCKS BEAR DOWN FOR WISCONSIN TILT

OSU Squad Practices with Rare Determination.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 9—Ohio State's football squad is buckling down to practice for Saturday's game at Wisconsin with a determination seldom displayed this fall.

Coach Paul Bixler keynoted the attitude when he declared: "As far as we're concerned, this is the start of the season—our first conference game and we're going to try to be ready mentally as well as physically."

Last night the squad worked long after dark to make up for Monday when the trip to California cut out workouts.

Seven of Bixler's present squad remember a 17-7 "kicking around" and otherwise undefeated Ohio State 1942 team got at Madison—and the Badgers were tough, too, in 1944 when the Bucks won 20-7.

The players who have personal and vengeful memories of the 1942 expedition are Cy Souders, Bob Jabbusch, Hal Dean, Wib Schneider, Chuck Csuri, Dick Palmer and Tommy James.

Before the Bucks leave tomorrow night for Wisconsin and a drill Friday in Jamesville, Bixler wants to work on a defense for the Wisconsin attack which he said tries to spread the opposition out wide and is altogether different from Southen California's.

He also intends to work on the Bucks' passing attack, which has gained a net of only 80 yards with seven completitions in 25 attempts for the two games this season.

Although the Bucks figure to outweigh Harry Stuhldreher's charges 197 pounds to 190 and although the Badgers took a 28-0 drubbing from Northwestern last Saturday, there's no overoptimism in the Bucks' camp. They're preparing for the same sort of hard-fought game that has marked every Wisconsin encounter since the series started in 1913. Ohio State has won eight of that series to Wisconsin's five, and two were tied.

Big 9 Teams Gird for Weekend Tilts

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—Notes from the Big Nine football camps:

Illinois — Ray Grierson, Mac Wenskumas and John Genis were off the injury list, but Buddy Young was under orders to take it easy because of a charley horse. . . . Coach Ray Eliot devoted most of his drills to passing defense against Indiana's Ben Raimondi. . . .

Indiana — Coach Bo McMillin ordered a week of secret practice. . . . "We've got to stop fumbling and we must get something new ready for Illinois," he said. . . .

Michigan — Varsity men were pitted against each other in a rugged scrimmage as Coach Fritz Crisler polished up a ground and air attack for Army. . . . Army will report to Michigan stadium Friday afternoon for a workout and will spend the night in Detroit. . . .

Wisconsin—Jack Wink, 1942 quarterback for the Badgers and captain of the Michigan eleven in 1943, has been named acting captain for the game against Ohio State. . . . Wisconsin scrimmaged against Ohio State's style of offense. Halfback Wally Breyer missed the drill to undergo treatments on minor bruises. . . .

Ohio State—Coach Paul Bixler is devoting most of his time strengthening the Buckeyes' passing attack which has been dismal in two games with only seven completions out of 25 attempts for a gain of 80 yards. . . .

Iowa—The Shoener twins, Harold and Herb, may be starting end positions against Nebraska. . . . Harold has been outstanding on defense and Herb caught the touchdown pass against Michigan Saturday. . . .

Purdue—With the two veteran ends, Norman Maloney and Bob Heck, shelved with injuries, Gordon Tanner and Ralph Weiger are likely choices for the starting assignment against Notre Dame. . . .

Minnesota—Coach Bernie Bierman demanded better "heads up ball," showing his squad movies of the Indiana game and pointing out many openings the Gophers had missed in their 21-0 licking. . . . The Gophers play Northwestern Saturday.

Northwestern—Ray Justak, outstanding guard and 1944 captain of the Wildcats, withdrew from the squad to devote all his time to law studies. . . . Dean Thomas, a 17-year-old, 225-pound freshman from Chicago, will replace Justak in the first string guard spot.

BREAKFAST AT FENWAY. Grover Cleveland Gilmore, first fan in line for bleacher seats for third World Series game, receives breakfast complete with hot coffee from his wife Christana. Comortably settled in a deck chair with his dog Trixie for company, Gilmore found it easy to take time off from his job—he is a butcher.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

BOSTON, Oct. 9—They're talking about the weather in Boston even more than they're talking about Ted Williams' failure to hit through the Cards' lopsided defense—and that requires a lot of talk...The weather man has predicted that it will be cloudy and cool today — "pretty miserable baseball weather"—but that rain would hold off until after the third World Series game. Ruin, at this time of year in New England, usually means a northeaster that keeps bringing in water by the bucketful for about three days... The only one in favor of that is a local writer who, like many others of the clan, is feuding with Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey... "Much as I'd like to have it over," he explained, "It would be worth having it rain just to make that guy feed the mob at press headquarters for four or five days."

Much At Steak

(News item: Iowa State football squad to dine on horse meat.)

With horse meat steaks on the training table
Iowa State should be strong and able,
Have plenty of speed, and also know
How to play the game—straight, place or show.

Fenway Foolishness

One red-hot rumor here is that Red Rolfe, an old Penacook, N. H. boy, will be the Yankees' next manager although even those who say they know have a hard time seeing the mild-mannered Red getting along with boisterous Larry MacPhail...another is that Sam Breadon will dispose of a couple of his pennant-winning Cards during the winter and the buyer will be Lou Perini, who needs only to strengthen a couple of spots to make his Braves into flag contenders . . . Philadelphia scribes are so high on the Penn football team that they figure "maybe Army can stop the Quakers."...Leo Durocher is staying at the same hotel as three National League umpires — which shows you how tough it is to get a room in this town.

Shear Nonsense

The first guy in line at the bleacher entrance to Fenway Park, Grover C. Gilmore, arrived Monday night, 38 hours before the starting time of today's game... The third to arrive was a barber, who took one look at Gilmore and then sent to a nearby drugstore for a razor and soap so he could get to work on Gilmore.

TWO LOCAL AUTOS TO RACE SUNDAY

Sabien, Simpson Will Drive for McCurdy at Marysville.

Sunday afternoon will see two autos owned by Harold "Monk" McCurdy entered in the races sponsored by the Buckeye Speedways at the Marysville fair grounds race track.

George Sabien of Detroit, just out of the Air Corps, will drive one of McCurdy's racers and the other will be driven by locally famous Bob Simpson.

Sabien in his first race for McCurdy last Sunday finished fifth in the Tri-State Racing association Ohio big car championship race at Ashland. Simpson who has been accelerating for McCurdy most of the summer season pushed his speeder over the finish line right behind the winner.

The Dryer which Simpson has been driving was once owned by the late "Lucky" Teters of Ashland. Teters owned a speedway in Langhorn, Pa. and also was proprietor of a thrill show. He gained the reputation of being one of the ace dare devils in the country but several years ago was killed in one of his thrill producing stunts.

There will be six events on the Marysville track, the feature of the afternoon being a 25 lap Marysville Sweepstakes. Other events are three elimination races, a helment dash, (four fastest cars) and consolation race. Qualifying trials will start at noon and the races will get underway at 2 p. m.

Other drivers entered in the Marysville races are Mike Sally of South Bend, Ind., victor in the Ohio Big car championship, Harry King of Detroit who will drive a team car with Salay, Frank Luplow, described as one of the hottest drivers in the country, is another Detroit driver. Old timer "Shorty" Drexeler of Columbus, Billy McGee of Newark, O. and many other headliners will be on hand.

Harold Roberty and Charles Simpson are the representatives of the Buckeye Speedways in charge of Sunday's races. Charles is a brother of Bob.

TED WILLIAMS PUT ON SPOT BY DYER

Failure To Solve "Shift" with 3rd Base Bunt Worries Sox.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 9 — Ted Williams' failure to foil the "Dyer shift" with a third base bunt has put the Red Sox slugger on the baseball hot seat today as Boston prepared for its first World Series game since 1918 against the conniving St. Louis Cardinals.

All even in their first two games at Sportsman's Park, the American league's runaway champs open at home this afternoon with their chief long distance power threat upset by the Cards' infield alignment.

Big Ted, the slim beanpole who missed the batting and home run titles in his own league, continues to challenge the solid right field defense.

Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis team has tacitly admitted his fear of Williams' power by changing third baseman Whitey Kurowski into a second sacker every time Ted comes to bat, moving second baseman Red Schoendienst to a normal first base and placing Stan Musial on the right field foul line.

The outfield also pulls sharply to right field, although unlike Lou Boudreau's original "stop Williams" defense, Dyer plays his left fielder fairly deep in a near-normal position. Third base is wide open and the left side of the infield is left entirely in the hands of Marty Marion who's Mr. Shortstop.

Ted said he tried to dump one down toward third in Monday's game and attempted to hit to left but was unable to carry out his plan because of Harry Brecheen's inside pitching.

The Cards figure that every time Williams does try to hit to left instead of doing what comes naturally, they will have him pressing so hard he won't be of much use to the Sox.

While the fans, writers and ball players gossiped about the Williams affair, the weatherman cast a disturbing shadow over the Fenway Park opener with his prediction that it would be cloudy and cool with temperatures in the 50's.

As the two clubs arrived from St. Louis last night by separate special trains they were greeted by a chilling wind that formed quite a contrast to the blistering heat that had sent the thermometer into the 80's both days at Sportsman's Park.

Miserable Weather Seen for Today's Series Game

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 9—Cloudy and cool weather — pretty miserable for baseball—was predicted today for the third game of the World Series between the Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Cardinals.

The Boston weather bureau forecaster said, however, that rain was expected to hold off until after the game is over.

Del Rice, Third String Card Catcher, May Be Series Hero

BOSTON, Oct. 9 — The World Series baseball classic, which down through the years has had its share of "ugly ducklings" who came out of the shadows of obscurity to steal the thunder from the more publicized stars, may produce another this year in Del Rice, third-string catcher of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Scarcely noted amidst such satellites as Stan Musial, Ted Williams, Rudy York, Whitey Kurowski, Bobby Doerr and Marty Marion, the slender 23-year-old native of Portsmouth, Ohio, who only two weeks ago was in Manager Eddie Dyer's doghouse, teamed up with pitcher Harry (The Cat) Brecheen to make the second game of the World Series a two-man show.

Besides handling a perfect game for Brecheen and calling for pitches which set the mighty Williams down four times without a safety, once via the strikeout route, Rice batted 1.000 with a fusty double off the left field wall, a single and a walk, scored two runs and set up the third in the Cards' 3-0 victory.

In Dyer Doghouse

Rice hadn't caught an inning since Sept. 21 when he had the misfortune to let a third strike against Bill Nicholson of Chicago get away from him, then threw wildly to first which led to a Cub run in one of the numerous crucial games the Cards participated in. Luckily the Cards came back to win 2-1, but Dyer, whether by coincidence or design, never used Rice again during the regular season.

It was only because Brecheen preferred Rice as his battery mate that the sincere, mild-mannered youngster, who had expected to watch the series from a nice, hard seat on the bench, got his chance at all. The fact that Mickey Harris, a southpaw, was pitching for the Boston Red Sox also had something to do with the decision.

Joe Garagiola and Clyde Kluttz, both added starters this season, were expected to divide the catching for the Red Birds in the series, Garagiola working whenever the Red Sox used a right-hander pitcher and Kluttz facing left handers.

But Brecheen spoke up for Rice, who had worked exclusively with the Cat during the regular campaign, and only when the opposition was pitching lefthanded, and Dyer consented, Rice did get into 55 games but most of them were in the early part of the season before the arrival of a Garagiola and Kluttz. He batted .273.

Didn't Expect To Play

"Although I had worked with Brecheen all year," confided Rice, "I did not expect to see any action in the World Series. I was the most surprised guy in St. Louis when Dyer, on the morning of the game, told me I was to catch.

"Since my father, wife and brother-in-law had come up from Portsmouth for the game, naturally I was also the happiest.

"No, I was not bitter at all about sitting out the last 10 days on the bench. If Eddie felt it was best for the club, that was good enough for me. The most important thing was to win the flag. Nothing else mattered.

"Dyer never said a harsh word to me after that error. Garagiola and Kluttz are fine catchers and they were doing a better job. That's all.

Hopes To Catch Again

"But I'm glad I vindicated myself. I hope Eddie lets me catch again next time Brecheen pitches, whether the Red Sox use a right-hander or a southpaw. I feel I could hit either kind if given the opportunity. I am using a new stance at the plate and I find that it enables me to pull the ball into left field more. You know, for a righthanded batter, I used to hit mostly toward right and therefore could not get enough power into my drives. If you remember, both my hits Monday fell in left field."

Rice, a professional basketball player of note during the winter, plans to forego cage activities this year and have an operation performed on his feet. Three winters as a forward on the Rochester cage team, champions of the National Basketball league last season, has developed three massive callouses on the sole of each foot and has retarded his speed on the diamond.

Who knows but what Rice, given another catching assignment during the series, may have his name linked with such "ugly ducklings" as George Rohe of the 1906 Chicago White Sox, Greasy Neale of the 1919 Cincinnati Reds, Johnny Rawlings of the 1921 New York Giants and Jake Powell of the 1937 New York Yankees as players who went into baseball's greatest event as comparative unknowns only to emerge in heroes' garb.

Double Main Go Booked For Thursday

Promoter Fishbaugh has lined up a couple of ninety minute matches for Thursday at the Marion Armory that should produce plenty of action. If one of the main events Steve Nenoff, who handed Buck Weaver a defeat last week will meet the rough Canadian, Rod Fenton; in fact it was Steve's idea for he was watching Rod wrestle Bob Cummins and asked for a chance at the former Lumberjack, saying, "I bet that he wouldn't pull that kind of stuff on me" so the match is on.

The other main go is another action plus match between Bob Cummins who made a lot of friends last week in his first Marion appearance and Monty LaDue, the rough going gent from Boston. LaDue is another boy who gives the fans a run for their money and matched with Cummins its bound to be a good bout.

A 10 minute prelim will open the show at 8:30, if you haven't your reserved seats call Markert & Lewis Cigar Store for the best.—Adv.

OPA FREES RAILWAY DINING CAR MEALS

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — All meals, food and beverages served on railroad dining cars will be freed from price ceilings on Friday, the OPA announced today.

The agency, announced that the exemption will not apply to sales of sandwiches, milk or other food or drinks sold by train peddlers.

Ceilings also will continue on sales at railroad station news stands or individuals selling food and drinks at stations.

The OPA said it is allowing exemption for meals, food and beverages served in dining cars, cafe cars or club cars because the railroads had proved "they are losing substantial amounts of money on their dining car operations, and the price increases that the OPA is required under the law to grant are greater than the railroads say they will put into effect themselves if the service is exempted from price control."

OPA said dining car prices had been frozen since July 1, 1943, at the highest level between Feb. 1 and April 10, 1943.

TRYGVE LIE SEEN TAKING HAND IN ATOMIC QUARREL

Speech Last Night Drops Hint of Future Action.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—The first public hint that Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general, might take a hand in the slow-moving atomic energy discussions raised far-reaching questions today as Bernard M. Baruch held firmly to the American plan to harness the atom for peace.

Lie dropped the hint during a short speech last night just before Baruch was awarded the Freedom House plaque for his services as the United States member of the United Nations atomic energy commission. However, Lie later told newsmen that he had no intention of intervening immediately.

In accepting the honor, presented by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Baruch maintained that the American plan, which Henry A. Wallace, former secretary of commerce, has bitterly assailed and which has been rejected by Soviet Russia, is "generous and just."

His audience listened quietly and carefully as he struck at Soviet Russia's stand that the control inspections insisted on by America would violate national sovereignty.

FIVE BOYS ACCUSED OF SCHOOL DAMAGE

Held in Detention Home; Halloween Pranksters Warned.

Vandalism at the Silver street school last weekend sent five Marion boys to the Marion county detention home and brought a warning from police and juvenile authorities today that destruction of property by "Halloween pranksters" would not be tolerated.

The boys will remain at the detention home "for the next few days," juvenile authorities said. One of the boys involved was 17 years old, two were 16, one 14 and one 13.

Police said the boys had torn down the basketball standards in the school yard and had broken the glass in a fire alarm box at Silver and Thompson streets. The basketball standards recently had been installed and the cement in which they were set still had not hardened, juvenile authorities said.

FIREMEN CONTINUE CHECK ON BUILDINGS

State Fire Marshal Accompanies Inspection.

City firemen continued their inpection of Marion business and industrial places today as part of the city's observance of National Fire Prevention Week. The drive here is sponsored by the fire prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Dale Bachelder of Prospect accompanied Fire Chief Owen A. Sifritt in making a check of buildings considered in a dangerous condition. Most of such structures were sheds and barns, the chief said. The north side was covered today.

Marshal Bachelder will return here within a few weeks, Sifritt said, to review results of the campaign. Owners of buildings considered in a doubtful condition may be ordered by him to correct such conditions or tear the buildings down. Bachelder has jurisdiction over Marion, Morrow and Richland counties.

Schools inspected have been found to be in excellent condition, the chief said. Fire drills and other preventive measures are being especially stressed this week. Members of the fire department and teachers are bringing the problem to the students' attention.

Demonstrations of both types of fire alarm boxes are continuing each day at Main and Center street from noon to 1 p. m.

Inspections of factories and places of business was being made in teams of two firemen. Some of the things they look for are these: are extinguishers loaded and ready; are exits clear; are there methods of entrance for firemen in case of a fire; are elevators working; is there trash about that might create a fire hazard; is electric wiring safe; are doorways unblocked; where are stairways; where are master switches.

SPRINGFIELD MAN ADDRESSES ROTARY

Speaks on "The Heritage That Is Ours."

"The Heritage That Is Ours" was subject taken by Ralph H. Wetherbee, manager of Samuel Bingham's Son Manufacturing company of Springfield, O., when he addressed the Rotary club in the weekly luncheon meeting at Hotel Harding Tuesday.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty," declared Mr. Wetherbee and warned that the forces of totalitarianism are constantly threatening the freedom-loving people of the world. The speaker emphasized that it is important for citizens to be always on the alert in order to protect the heritage that is ours.

"Winning the peace, like charity, must begin at home." Mr. Wetherbee said, citing examples of misuse of power in our own country as well as in the rest of the world, such as the demands of pressure groups.

As a solution to these problems, Mr. Wetherbee said, "What is needed is a square deal with a practical use of the golden rule."

He then cited many incidents in American history which illustrate the struggle of Americans to gain liberty and equality, and urged that Americans remember the wholehearted efforts of Washington and Lincoln in their struggle to preserve "the heritage that is ours."

William Ehrick, Rotary program chairman for October, introduced the speaker.

Guests of the club were: Milton S. Pohler of Kansas City, H. H. Everist Jr. of Sioux Ia., Edwin Ferguson, administrator of the Marion City hos William Green, boys' work s tary of the Y. M. C. A., and W. Kohlhorst.

Tom Torrance was rep from the Harding High S journalism class.

"GARSSON CASE" TO GO TO GRAND JURY

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—The government completed arrangements today to lay the "Garsson case" before federal grand jurors as a demand arose that Rep. May (R-NY) answer senate investigators' questions about the wartime munitions combine prior to the November election.

Senator Brewster (R-Me), a member of the senate war investigating committee which spent six weeks delving into the once sprawling arms venture, told reporters that "in justice to May" the committee should arrange an early appearance for the Kentucky lawmaker.

There was no reference to May in Attorney General Tom Clark's terse announcement last night that the Garsson case would be presented to a grand jury, beginning tomorrow.

Within the last 10 days the Garsson case and May's connection with it has been brought into the West Virginia campaign where Chairman Harley Kilgore of the investigating committee is running for re-election to the senate.

Tom Sweeney, Kilgore's Republican opponent, contended that Kilgore agreed with President Truman at a recent White House conference to "sidetrack" May's appearance at least until after the election.

Charles G. Ross, Presidential press secretary, denied this, telling reporters that Mr. Truman had told him May's name did not come up in the conference with Kilgore.

In West Virginia, Kilgore said the committee would hear May when the Kentuckian is physically able to testify.

FUMES OVERCOME COUPLE IN TRAILER

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wittred Found Unconscious.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wittred, residents of a house trailer at the farm home of Taber Adams near Gate 1 at the Marion Engineer Depot, were found unconscious in their trailer today at 12:30 p. m. They were taken to Marion City hospital where attendants said they still were unconscious but their condition was not believed to be critical. They were believed to have been overcome by fumes from a refrigerator.

Mr. Wittred is employed at the Marion Engineer Depot and after he failed to appear this morning, Mr. Adams investigated. When he received no answer to his knocks on the trailer door he summoned Sheriff LeRoy Retterer.

Unable to open the trailer door, Sheriff Retterer entered the trailer by breaking a window. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wittred were still in bed the sheriff said. He added that the trailer smelled strongly of fumes, and the refrigerator was making a peculiar throbbing sound.

The victims were taken to City hospital in the M. H. Gunder and Sons and the Schaffner-Denzer Co. ambulances.

The Wittreds are parents of two daughters, Mary Dianne, 13, and Jerry Kay, 2. Both girls have been staying with their grandmother, Mrs. Arthur Wittred of 644 East Church street.

SURVEY

housewives were reported to be bribing the butcher with gifts of whisky, one wishful buyer lost a tooth and two were scratched when 25 women rushed a clerk who was bringing out a carton of soap flakes.

In Longan county, W. Va., four coal mines were shut down when miners went on a protest strike against shortages of meat, lard and soap.

No actual butter shortages were reported, but a Syracuse, N. Y. dealer said it must be scarce or it wouldn't be selling there for 90 cents a pound. Wichita, Kans., added that butter was plentiful—at $1 a pound.

New York City appeared to be suffering from the most acute sugar shortages. Refineries have been shutting down in part because of maritime and trucking strikes, and two of the biggest bakeries reported they would have to stop making pastries shortly.

Reports from other centers disclosed many oddities. In Chicago, "grab bag" or pre-wrapped meat sometimes is sold to known customers. In Salt Lake, Utah, a special effort will be made to get needed fats off the bodies of 50,000 deer to be slain shortly. In Minneapolis, 30 head of Bison have been taken from a private herd for meat purposes. And in San Diego, Calif., a beauty parlor operator rushed away from her client when she saw a meat truck pull up nearby. She got two lamb chops for her family of three.

OPA Frees Prices Of Tires for Lawn Mowers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 — The OPA removed price lids today from rubber tires for lawn mowers, tires bus lines rent on a mileage basis, and used bicycle tires.

Ceilings still cover most passenger car and truck tires which remain in the scarce list.

OPA said there is an adequate supply of tires for lawnmowers and for rent to bus lines, and used bicycle tires are rated as unimportant to business and living costs.

Also freed because of adequate supplies are rubber in clothing, garden rakes and hoses, bathing caps; wooden tubs, buckets, kits and pails; casein glue; and micellaneous chemical, drug and rubber items.

LYDIA CHAPTER HONORS MRS. FLORENCE PICKEREL

Program and Social Hour Feature Temple Meeting.

Mrs. Florence Pickerel, grand representative of Massachusetts, was honored by members of Lydia chapter No. 83, Order of the Eastern Star, Monday night, at the Masonic temple. Mrs. Pickerel, who was appointed to her office last year by Mrs. Robert Mendling of Waverly, worthy grand matron, will serve for a term of three years.

A program in charge of Mrs. Clarabelle Sinning included musical numbers and later there was a social hour and refreshments. Members who served in the office of Martha presented the honored member sprays of ferns and these were bound into a sheaf with a large silver bow by Mrs. Eloise Youngs who also extended greetings from the group.

Mrs. Gail Montgomery, worthy matron, presided. Fred L. Carhart, a past grand patron, gave an informal talk and greetings were extended to Mrs. Pickerel from Mrs. Zoe Hill of Caledonia, grand representative of North Dakota. A gift was presented Mrs. Pickerel by Mrs. Rose Helwig who was worthy matron at the time she received her appointment. Mr. Carhart was worthy patron of the chapter at that time.

For refreshments served in the dining room two long tables were decorated with white gladioli, silvered leaves and greenery. A cake, decorated with white roses, and an open book representing the Bible, completed the decorations. Across the book, inscribed in green letters, was the word "Florence." Presiding were Miss Etta Carter, Mrs. Catherine Hughes, Mrs. Mabel Benecutter and Mrs. Mary Fisher.

Visitors were present from Indiana, Delaware, Caledonia, La-Rue, Marseilles and a number of other places.

Several petitions were received. Announcement was made of the next meeting Oct. 21. Following the meeting and also the following day a large number of the members will go to Cleveland for the grand chapter meeting.

Midday Selling Blaze Drives Stocks Down

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—A midday blaze of selling flared in the stock market today and drove leaders down $1 to around $4 a share before subsiding.

The new decline marked a resumption of the long downward slide in share prices which has carried the market on the average to around the lowest since April 1945.

township and Pleasant Hills areas were without power for four hours until power was switched to them from other sub-stations.

It was the second time in the strike that the company has changed schedule in a power shortage.

The company said the 45,000 outside of the area served by the Brookwood project experienced 20,000 persons and that the area served by the Brookwood plant will be normally in operation whether the employees come to regular, striking work.

Programs on the Air

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—As far as the New York area is concerned, this is television week. The incentive is the second annual conference of the Television Broadcasters association.

The conference is being hailed as the "official raising of the curtain on commercial activity" and as "heralding the start of a concerted drive to create a national television service within the next few years." It will be in session tomorrow and Friday.

For the first time from such a conference, a complete schedule of telecasts, ranging from the sessions themselves, through luncheon gatherings to the Thursday night banquet, is being arranged.

The programs will go over the coaxial cable and radio relay hookup that will include New York's WNBT and WABD, Philadelphia's WPTZ, Washington's YTTG, and Schenectady's WRGB. Besides telecasts from the meeting, the New York stations also are to provide some programs for the delegates. At least two pick-ups from Washington are on the list. Along with the conference there is to be a display of the latest type receivers being made ready by various manufacturers for the retail market. This likewise, is rated as a "first." The sets will include both large screen and small table models, covering a price range from around $150 to $2,000 or more.

TODAY'S DOWNTURN EXTENDED IN MARKET

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—Leading stocks extended Tuesday's late downturn in today's market although pressure was not heavy and most price changes were narrow.

Selling was credited by some brokers to customers' concern over industrial production prospects, the wage-price picture and the lack of balance evidenced by widespread complaints of material shortages.

After an active opening, the pace of dealings slowed. Declines of fractions to around 3 points were scattered through the list near midday.

Prominent on the offlsed were Chrysler, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Owens-Illinois, U. S. Gypsum, Douglas Aircraft, International Harvester, American Telephone, Kennecott, General Electric, U. S. Steel, Goodyear and Standard Oil (N. J.) Coca-Cola dipped 4¾ on a single transaction. Resistant were Air Reduction and Electric Power and Light.

"Boy! What a gold digger—even her kisses are dollar signs!"

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

SAM BRIXTON spoke with emphasis, and again I felt my nerve ends tingle.

This affair, involving the father of Marion's fiance, Ronald, stemmed back, it appeared, to his discreditable adventures with Marion's rascally father in the Boxer Rebellion. But something told me that it had more up-to-date ramifications, a theory which his next words strengthened.

"There's just one man in the world who could have helped me," he said, "but they tell me he got his over a year ago; got it good and lingering, too, poor devil! You knew him — that 'Chink,' Lee Chow, who used to be so pally with Major Grantland. The major got his, too, they tell me. But he ought to know better than to get mixed up with that heathen stuff. It's never healthy. Look at me!"

Face to Face

My excitement had mounted to fever heat. What would Sam say, I wondered, if I should tell him that within the next few hours he would come face to face with both Lee Chow and Hugh Grantland, whom, he evidently thought, had been killed?

And the chance reference gave me food for exciting conjectures. It had been over a year ago that my postal cards from Hugh had stopped coming. Patently, the two comrades of so many adventures had planned their apparent death. But my father had been in on the secret of whatever they had been doing. I was sure of that.

But I knew I must not let Sam Brixton suspect my knowledge.

"Oh! oh!" I said, trying to appear distressed. "I am so sorry to hear that! I knew them both so well."

Key to Everything

"I shouldn't have blurted it out that way," Sam said remorsefully. "But do you suppose you could see Helena, and tell her she must give you that small packet I told her to keep for me? I've got to have it right away, for it's the key to everything, and I guess the game is up. I've got to turn everything over to your father, and throw myself on his mercy. I can't go along on my own any longer, not with those torturing devils loose."

I stifled the impulse to relieve his terror by telling him that the "torturing devils" were being efficiently trailed by my father's men. That was strictly the "Chief's" business. I had no right to meddle with it.

"I am sure you will find that 'the quality of mercy is not strained,' where my father is concerned," I told him. "But we haven't time to dwell on that. Our time is nearly up, and I must tell you that I am sure Helena will not give me that package. She is rather angry at me."

"She'll get over that," Helena's husband said comfortably.

Then his voice sharpened.

Must Give It

"But she must give it to you!" he said. "I can't see her alone. They won't let me, and you're the only person outside your father, who must know about this."

"I can do this," I proposed after a moment's thought. "I can have Mrs. Bickett send for Helena and Carolyn now, and, if you wish, I will offer to stay in here instead of Mrs. Bickett. But, I warn you, Helena is going to object."

"No, she won't," Helena's fatuous husband said. "Not after I've talked to her. Will you see to it right away, please?"

I looked at my wrist watch.

"As soon as Katharine comes back," I said; then added a corollary as he stirred restlessly.

"You can set clocks by her," I assured him, smiling. "She's due back in another half minute, and she'll be back on the second."

A True Prophet

It was exactly on the second that Katharine proved me a true prophet, and I wasted no time in putting Sam's request to her.

She looked at me significantly as I finished.

"There'll be ructions," she murmured. Then she turned to Sam. "I'll go for Helena and Carolyn now," she said.

As she started for the door, Sam spoke a bit querulously to me.

"I always like to see Carolyn," he said, "but it isn't necessary for her to come with her mother now. She doesn't know anything about this business, and I don't want her to know even as much as her mother, and that's precious little."
